...LBJ Slowing Great Society Spending

Austin, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson gave the go-ahead Friday for a new high-speed bomber to cost $1.75 billion, but flashed a slowdown signal on domestic spending.

It thus appeared that some of the Great Society programs authorized by the last session of Congress will feel the financial pinch caused by mounting costs of the war in Viet Nam.

210 by 1971

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told a news conference in Austin, after a three-hour conference with Johnson at his ranch near Johnson City, that the commander-in-chief approved a plan to build 210 bombers with a speed twice of that of the present B52 by 1971.

To be known as the FB111, it will be a modification of the F111, the controversial fighter once called the TFX.

McNamara, who was accompanied by his deputy secretary, Cyrus R. Vance, and members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said there was unanimous agreement on about 99% of the items in the defense budget for the next fiscal year starting July 1.

Savings Demanded

Heads of civilian departments and agencies followed the Pentagon delegation, and they reported Friday night that Johnson demanded savings wherever possible.

Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor, for example, said there would be some slowdown in programs in his department, including spending on the economic development program and Appalachia.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said the Great Society programs within his department would "inch forward."

Both Freeman and Connor said their budgets for the next fiscal year would be smaller than for the present one.

Enough For Space

Space Administrator James E. Webb said he had what he described as a "spirited discussion" with Johnson and Budget Director Charles L. Schultze, but that he isn't going to get all the money he asked for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Nevertheless, there will be enough for "a good space program."

And Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said pretty much the same thing He saw nothing different about this, remarking that in his time the AEC never got all of what it asked for.

McNamara said the FB111 will fly twice as fast as the latest model of the B52, have equal range, and far greater capacity to penetrate enemy territory. The latest B52 has a speed of about 650 miles an hour and 9,000-mile range.

The defense chief told of plans for the new bomber when asked for his comment on criticism by members of Congress and others of his decision to retire 425 older B52s and all B58s over the next few years.

"They spoke too soon," McNamara said.

McNamara said the FB111 would be capable of both strategic and tactical missions, and equipped to carry either nuclear or conventional bombs. He placed its load capacity at 50 high-explosive bombs weighing 750 pounds each

McNamara said this country's bomber force now is four times that of the Soviet Union, and that he forsees no material change in this ratio of superiority at least through the next decade.

He said this country now has 680 heavy bombers and that the total will drop to about 465 by the end of the decade The force then will be made up of 255 late-model B52s, retained in service, plus the 210 new FB111s.

General Dynamics Corp. builds the F111 in its plant in Fort Worth, Tex. McNamara said this company, together with the present subcontractors, will build the new bomber.

Trio Acquitted In Reeb Killing

Selma, Ala. (AP)—Three white men accused of killing a pro-integration Boston minister, the Rev. James Reeb, were acquitted Friday by a jury in state court which deliberated less than two hours,

A courtroom filled mostly with white spectators applauded when the three separate verdicts were read by jury foreman William W. Vaughn of Selma, an oil company official.

The defendants — Elmer L. Cook, 42, manager of a novelty company; Namon O'Neal Hoggle, 31, an auto mechanic, and his brother, William Stanley Hoggle, 37, a salesman—displayed no emotion. They were seated with their attorney at a table inside the railing which separates the jury and court officials from the spectators.

First Degree

The accused men had been on trial four days under first degree murder indictments growing out of the fatal beating of the Rev. Mr. Reeb on a Selma street the night of last March 9.

The 38-year-old Unitarian minister and father of four children had come to Selma to take part in the struggle for Negro voting rights and had participated earlier that day in an unsuccessful attempt to march in protest from Selma to Montgomery.

When the spectators applauded the jury's verdicts, Sheriff James G. Clark Jr. and his deputies on duty in the courtroom as bailiffs called sharply for order. Circuit Judge L. S. Moore told the crowd: "Sit down!"

Convictions

The verdict followed by one week convictions of white men in two other racially related Alabama slayings. A white jury at Anniston convicted a white man of murder in the shooting death of a Negro and another white jury at Montgomery convicted three Ku Klux Klansmen of federal conspiracy charges in the slaying of a white civil rights worker.

Before the jury began its brief deliberations, it was admonished to put aside any racial prejudice as it considered the testimony and evidence.

Deputy District Atty. Virgis Ashworth appealed to the jurors to forego any animosity because of the civil rights struggle in Selma and to decide the fate of the defendants on the evidence and nothing else.

'Let Him Die'

Defense attorney Joseph Pilcher argued the state failed to make a case against the defendants.

Pilcher told the jury that evidence showed an unreasonable delay in getting proper medical treatment, then charged, "The best you can say about this case is that somebody let him die, that somebody knowingly let him die."

Willie Hicks Gets Surprise

Convers, Ga. (AP)—The most surprised junkyard operator in Georgia Friday was Willie Hicks, who operates a business on Interstate 20. His was the first project in Georgia to be included in the federal highway beautification program, and possibly the first in the nation.

But nobody told Hicks except a newsman. The federal government is putting up most of the money and the state is doing the work.

"I think it's right nice of them," Hicks said, "especially since I was going to do it myself."

t will take about 2,000 feet of trees, shrubs and vines and $2,500 to screen the junkyard, which Hicks, 56, has operated since 1950. The yard contains about 300 wrecked automobiles.

Ordered

The trees and shrubs have been ordered and the state highway department says they will be planted along the Interstate right-of-way within the next few days.

Hicks, who operates a garage at the junkyard, said he already has moved some of the wrecked cars to make room for a high chain link fence which he had planned to support the vines.

"I think the federal program is good, and I think everybody ought to cooperate," he said.

The state highway department design engineer, John Wilkerson, said, "We don't have to notify anybody. We've got a federal law that tells us what we have to do. All we have to do is do it."

Wilkerson said the screening will include red maples, willow oaks, redbuds, dogwoods and red cedars. Shrubs and vines such as Russian olive, ligustrum and Carolina jasmine will be used to cover the right-of-way fence and block the view beneath the trees. A total of 18 trees, 150 shrubs and 99 vines will be planted.

The bill signed by President Johnson Oct. 27 provides that the federal government will pay 75% of the cost of hiding unsightly junkyards from motorists who travel the Interstate highways in states willing to cooperate. The states must do the work, however.

The deadline for completing the entire beautification program is Jan. 1, 1968, except where some junkyards may have to be moved. The deadline in these cases would be extended to Jan. 1, 1970.

NSEA Church, State Motion Is Reconsidered

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Only one voice protested a move to reconsider and possibly withdraw a resolution supporting the principle of complete separation of church and state before the Assn. Delegate Assembly here Friday.

Mrs. Evelyn S. Hotz of the Omaha Education Assn. told the opening session of the 99th Delegate Assembly that NSEA District II representatives had concluded that a vote either way on the resolution would not make any difference but would put Nebraska in a "bad light" from the publicity on the issue.

Other members of the District II group echoed Mrs. Hotz remarks after she moved that the resolutions committee be directed to reconsider the statement and "urge that it be withdrawn from consideration by the assembly."

Near Unanimous

The nearly unanimous vote of 208 delegates attending the assembly followed a discussion in which no protest of the motion nor support for the resolution was heard.

Final action—to withdraw, approve or disapprove the resolution—will come Saturday.

The stand originally prepared by a legislative commission for delegate consideration resolved "that the NSEA support the principle of complete separation of church and state and the use of public funds for the support of public education."

The commission's recommendation for implementing the resolution included active opposition by NSEA to the proposed constitutional amendment to provide public school bus transportation to private and parochial school pupils.

It was noted in a statement accompanying the resolution that "although the NSEA has long supported the principle of separation of church and state, and the use of public funds for public education there is no statement in our platform that specifically states this position.

"It is difficult to oppose a constitutional amendment such as the proposed school bus amendment, without a statement of principle on which to base the opposition."

Lincoln High School principal William Bogar, who termed the document an "ill-advised resolution to pass," reported that the Nebraska Assn. of School Administrators had discussed the issue and concluded it is "an area which the electorate of Nebraska should give direction to the professionals by voting.'

The Delegate Assembly Friday, in a session dominated by reports of commission recommendations, constitutional amendments and other resolutions which will be acted upon on Saturday, also voted to establish a committee to study district convention formats and programs.

Callan: No Federal Grip On Schools

Nebraskans need not fear that control of education will fall into the hands of the federal government even though increasing amounts of money are being made available for local school districts, according to First District Congressman Clair Callan

Federal financing for education only amounts to six percent of school budgets, with 94% paid by state and local money, Callan told the Nebraska State Education Assn. Delegate Assembly here Friday night.

"As long as this condition exists, there is no need to worry about federal control over education," he said.

The only time that any change in responsibility for education regulation will be made is "when local communities abdicate their obligation."'

"I don't believe this will ever happen in Nebraska," Callan declared.

However, the congressman pointed out that the federal government does have a "role in assisting schools and teachers to help them where they can't or won't do it themselves "

Callan urged local school districts to use "every bit" of federal aid available to them, emphasizing that funds are available on a "take-it-or-leave-it basis."

Lincoln, Omaha Officials Approve Annexation Law

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

City representatives of Lincoln and Omaha Friday told the Legislative Council's annexation study committee that the state's present annexation laws are essentially satisfactory

However, Omaha City Attorney Herbert Fitle said new law "may be needed" if an adverse court decision should curtail Omaha's ability to extend itself in an orderly manner.

Omaha and Sarpy County have been battling over the metropolitan city's recent annexation across county lines.

Litigation is presently before the courts, and an attempt was made during the last legislative session to shackle the city by new legislation from crossing county lines.

No Complication

Fitle noted that 350 different annexation laws are spread across the U.S.

"Annexation laws should be uniform for all cities," he said, but he cautioned against attempting to draft a law to cover all variables.

"Over-complicated annexation laws just open the doors to a multitude of problems and litigation," he added.

Lincoln Planning Director Douglas Brogden said Lincoln "is satisfied with the annexation law that now exists."

To a committee question, he said Lincoln annexation won't approach another incorporated village in the foreseeable future or reach a county boundary.

Local Situations

Omaha and Lincoln officials pointed out the annexations for the two cities differ somewhat because of local situations.

Lincoln can annex before urban build-up because of municipal control over utilities while Omaha accepts built-up areas developed under special assessment districts.

Omaha Planning Director Alden Aust said the city '"has annexed in an orderly manner, tailoring growth to the city's ability to provide the services."

Sen. Kenneth Bowen, committee chairman, said the next sessions would be held Jan. 6 and 7 in North Platte and Grand Island.

Fog Stops Plane Traffic In Area

Fog blanketed Lincoln Friday morning and afternoon, and crippled air traffic across a sixteen state area of the Midwest Friday night, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau in Chicago.

The Lincoln Municipal Airport reported that most air travel was curtailed during the day Friday.

The fog was due to warm, moist air moving north from the Gulf of Mexico coming in contact with the cooler Great Plains air.

ETV Council Adds 61 Member Schools

By DICK BUDIG
Star Staff Writer

New programs, by-law changes, the addition of 61 member schools and talk of the possibilities of color educational television programing highlighted the annual meeting of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television in Lincoln Friday.

Included in the proposed new programing chart are two additional art courses. They include fifteen 15-minute programs to be played every other week for beginners up to third graders and fifteen 30-minute programs for sixth graders to be played every other week. Both new art programs are to be played in the morning and afternoon.

Also slated as a new addition is a program tentatively titled American Heritage, and two new ASERT projects, one for gifted children and one for deprived children.

Council members, who represented the majority of member schools in the Nebraska Council, also discussed the possibility of broadcasting a live science program aimed at fifth and sixth graders.

By-Law Change

A major change in the bylaws affects voting privileges of members and is aimed at getting more Class I schools to join the council, as well as distributing representation of members.

The change, which was one of several by-law amendments, gives county superintendents the power to cast one vote for Class I schools at membership meetings, providing the majority of Class I schools in that superintendent's county belong to the council.

Another section of the same by-law amendment reads. "Non-public school members maintaining a course of instruction for grades one to twelve inclusive or nine to twelve inclusive, shall be entitled to one vote. Non-public school members providing a course of instruction other than grades one through 12 inclusive or 9 through 12 inclusive shall be represented by the diocese or area superintendent who shall be entitled to cast one vote for his area."

108 Members

The addition of 61 member schools brings to 108 the number now being served by the Nebraska Council. The council's secretary treasurer, Vic Christenson of Lincoln, estimated that 90,000 students are enrolled in the program as a result of the membership increase

The possibilities of broadcasting educational television programs in color was covered in a report on the state network by Jack McBride of KUON TV at the University of Nebraska.

He said he looks for ETV programs to be broadcast in color within the next four years.

He noted that this was a prediction but added "It's inevitable. It's just a matter of when" it will come about.

ETV transmitters presently in use, and the two new transmitters which will be erected soon near North Platte and Alliance, have the capability of broadcasting color now.

All that is necessary, he said, is to plug color transmitting equipment into the present system.

McBride also reported to the council that as of last Monday the Federal Communications Commission had approved ETV stations for North Platte and Alliance.

Construction, with projected completion date of July 15, 1966, has begun on tower sites near Sutherland and Alliance, he reported.

Carol Seevers Elected President Of ETV Council

Carol Seevers, Waverly, was elected president of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television at that group's annual meeting in Lincoln Friday. He served as the group's vice president last year.

Delbert Nelson, Ralston, was elected new vice president of the group while Vic Christenson, Lincoln, was retained as secretary-treasurer.

New men named to the board of directors were John Johnson, Kearney, and Hugh Pursel, Gordon. They replace Paul Morris of Kearney who has moved, and Stanley Wilcox of Gretna who voluntarily withdrew his name from the list of 15 directors in an effort to give more representation to the western part of the state.

Fog Stops Plane Traffic In Area

Fog blanketed Lincoln Friday morning and afternoon, and crippled air traffic across a sixteen state area of the Midwest Friday night, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau in Chicago.

The Lincoln Municipal Airport reported that most air travel was curtailed during the day Friday.

The fog was due to warm, moist air moving north from the Gulf of Mexico coming in contact with the cooler Great Plains air.

ETV Council Adds 61 Member Schools

By DICK BUDIG
Star Staff Writer

New programs, by-law changes, the addition of 61 member schools and talk of the possibilities of color educational television programing highlighted the annual meeting of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television in Lincoln Friday.

Included in the proposed new programing chart are two additional art courses. They include fifteen 15-minute programs to be played every other week for beginners up to third graders and fifteen 30-minute programs for sixth graders to be played every other week. Both new art programs are to be played in the morning and afternoon.

Also slated as a new addition is a program tentatively titled American Heritage, and two new ASERT projects, one for gifted children and one for deprived children.

Council members, who represented the majority of member schools in the Nebraska Council, also discussed the possibility of broadcasting a live science program aimed at fifth and sixth graders.

By-Law Change

A major change in the bylaws affects voting privileges of members and is aimed at getting more Class I schools to join the council, as well as distributing representation of members.

The change, which was one of several by-law amendments, gives county superintendents the power to cast one vote for Class I schools at membership meetings, providing the majority of Class I schools in that superintendent's county belong to the council.

Another section of the same by-law amendment reads, "Non-public school members maintaining a course of instruction for grades one to twelve inclusive or nine to twelve inclusive, shall be entitled to one vote. Non-public school members providing a course of instruction other than grades one through 12 inclusive or 9 through 12 inclusive shall be represented by the diocese or area superintendent who shall be entitled to cast one vote for his area."

108 Members

The addition of 61 member schools brings to 108 the number now being served by the Nebraska Council. The council's secretary treasurer, Vic Christenson of Lincoln, estimated that 90,000 students are enrolled in the program as a result of the membership increase.

The possibilities of broadcasting educational television programs in color was covered in a report on the state network by Jack McBride of KUON TV at the University of Nebraska.

He said he looks for ETV programs to be broadcast in color within the next four years.

He noted that this was a prediction, but added, "It's inevitable. It's just a matter of when" it will come about.

ETV transmitters presently in use, and the two new transmitters which will be erected soon near North Platte and Alliance, have the capability of broadcasting color now.

All that is necessary, he said, is to plug color transmitting equipment into the present system.

McBride also reported to the council that as of last Monday the Federal Communications Commission had approved ETV stations for North Platte and Alliance.

Construction, with projected completion date of July 15, 1966, has begun on tower sites near Sutherland and Alliance, he reported.

Carol Seevers, Waverly, was elected president of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television at that group's annual meeting in Lincoln Friday. He served as the group's vice president last year.

New men named to the board of directors were John Johnson, Kearney, and Hugh Pursel, Gordon. They replace Paul Morris of Kearney who has moved, and Stanley Wilcox of Gretna who voluntarily withdrew his name from the list of 15 directors in an effort to give more representation to the western part of the state.

U.S., VIETS TRY TO TRAP REDS

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines shot up outlying guerrilla platoons Friday and, teaming with Vietnamese troops, sought to trap a regiment or more of hard core Viet Cong who had dug in to hold a coastal valley south of Da Nang. But it was slow going.

Air raids north of the border included deposit of 80 tons of bombs by U.S. Air Force Thunderchief jets on roads in two areas — 90 miles west of Hanoi, the communist capital, and 90 miles farther west at Dien Bein Phu. Low clouds prevented assessment of the results.

Navy pilots from the carrier Bon Homme Richard reported they encountered a convoy of 30 barges above Dong Hoi, 45 miles north of the border, and destroyed five. American planes also loosed a million propaganda leaflets over the north.

The three-day-old coastal battle, however, remained the focal point of war that now appears to be costing the United States about $6 billion a year.

This estimate of the cost, based on an unofficial study by AP military writer Fred S. Hoffman in Washington, compares with France's expenditure of about $1 billion a year in the Indochina War that Ho Chi Minh's communist-led forces won in 1954.

The American Marines, some freshly helicoptered into combat from the carrier Valley Forge, found marshy ground and other features of the terrain impeded their maneuvers to encircle the Viet Cong.

As explained by Lt. Col. Leon Utter of Miami, Fla., commander of one of the Leatherneck battalions:

"We've cut their retreat into the hills in the west. Now we want to close the loop on them."

But a senior Marine officer told newsmen hours later:

"Our dragnet has been extremely hard to implement."

This officer said he believed from 200 to 508 Viet Cong have been killed, largely by artillery and air strikes since the battle erupted Wednesday with a crushing red attack on a Vietnamese ranger batalion. Vietnamese losses also are considered heavy.

Losses Light

Casualties among the Marines, some of whom were committed Thursday under a screen of official secrecy, were reported to be light.

U.S. military sources said the Leathernecks killed 26 Viet Cong, including two women fighters, in skirmishing near the village of Que Son, near the main battle zone 30 miles south of Da Nang.

The new contingent from the Valley Forge, which is standing out in the South China Sea, ran into brisk firefights with groups of 30 to 49 guerrillas soon after landing.

Trying to restrict helicopter operations, the Viet Cong spiked a potential landing field on one small hill with numerous bamboo poles, 15 to 20 feet high. Utter's battalion took the hill.

Up To 3,700

Utter estimated as many as 3,700 Viet Cong were in the region. He said they include the 60th Battalion, one of the Red units that Marines defeated decisively in the battle of the Van Tuong Peninsula last August.

The coastal battle centers between U.S. Marine bases at Da Nang and Chu Lai.

Marine and U.S. Air Force planes hit at Viet Cong buildings, bunkers and gun emplacements with rockets, bombs and 20mm cannon shells. Combat sorties since Thursday night totaled more than 200

Leaders Split

In Washington, South Vietnamese Ambassador Vu Van Thai said the bombing has divided North Vietnamese communists and sent their leaders hurrying to the Soviet Union. Hanoi Vice Premier Le Thanh Ngi heads a delegation now in Moscow seeking further Russian help.

A Peking broadcast announced the return of a Chinese delegation from the signing in Hanoi of an agreement between Red China and North Viet Nam on scientific and technical cooperation.

A U.S. senatorial fact-finding mission headed by majority leader Mike Mansfield that has touched down in various European and Asian capitals arrived in Manila with a partial draft of a report to Johnson on peace prospects in Viet Nam. The five-man party is leaving for Tokyo Sunday.

Rusk Says U.S. Fighting To Prevent World War III

San Francisco (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Friday the United States is fighting in Viet Nam to prevent World War III and working to build a lasting peace because "we shall not have the chance again."

"It is of the utmost importance" that the communists clearly recognize the United States will live up to its commitments in Viet Nam and other world troublespots, Rusk said.

"Otherwise the structure of peace right around the world could disintegrate," he told 1,000 labor delegates to the AFL-CIO's 10th anniversary convention.

Real Problem

He emphasized nations must prevent a recurrence of global conflict, warning:

"The survival of man is no longer a figure of speech!"

Delegates whistled, applauded and cheered for three minutes.

A group of about 40, carrying banners identifying them as from San Francisco State College and against the war in Viet Nam, sat quietly in the gallery. One of their banners read "peace."

Glad They Came

AFL-CIO President George Meany cleared them out as soon as Rusk finished, commenting:

"We were glad to have them here during the secretary's talk to help their sadly neglected education. But now let's get on with business."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey linked the war in Viet Nam to labor's aspirations.

As Humphrey spoke, a small group identifying itself as "Workers United for Political Action" picketed outside Convention hall and passed out literature condemning the AFL-CIO for supporting Johnson administration policies in Viet Nam.

'Rank And File'

The group—only three or four demonstrators—said it was an organization of "rank and file trade union members."

Referring to the pickets, Humphrey said he respected their right to carry signs opposing U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

"The trouble is these signs are being carried in the wrong country," Humphrey said.

U.S. Not Danger

He said the danger to peace was not in the United States but in Hanoi and Peking.

Humphrey added:

"Today young Americans are dying in Viet Nam not for the safety of strangers but for the safety of all free men."

The vice president said military victory in Viet Nam is inevitable and must be followed by American leadership and social and economic development so that all Southeast Asia may "look forward to a tomorrow without danger of attack, without hunger and with social justice and security."

14B Vow

Like administration leaders who addressed the convention Thursday, Humphrey pledged "to fight hard and win" repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act that "has spawned in 19 states 'right-to-work' laws."

Rapist-Murderer Pixley Executed In Gas Chamber

Rawlins, Wyo. (AP)—Andrew Pixley went calmly to his death in the gas chamber just after midnight Friday in payment for the confessed rape-murder of a 12-year-old Illinois girl.

The prison physician, Dr. Robert Paul, pronounced Pixley dead at 12:16 a.m. MST.

Pixley donated his eyes to the University of Colorado Medical School for use in corneal transplants and experimental research.

Pixley had pleaded guilty to a first degree murder charge in the rape-slaying of 12-year-old Deborah McAuliffe, daughter of Circuit Judge and Mrs. Robert McAuliffe of Maywood, Ill. The girl and her sister, Cynthia, 8, were slain Aug. 7, 1964, in their room at a Jackson hotel.

Judge Christ Seraphim Jails Picketing Ex-Nun

Milwaukee, Wis. (AP)—A former Roman Catholic nun who has been a leader in Milwaukee civil rights demonstrations was sentenced to 30 days in jail Friday by County Judge Christ T. Seraphim.

Miss Marilyn Morheuser, arrested along with three others earlier in the day and charged with disorderly conduct for helping another demonstrator try to chain himself to a truck at the MacDowell Elementary School construction site, was given a choice by the court.

Seraphim asked her to promise to refrain from further demonstrations and "other unlawful activity." Miss Morheuser refused and asked for the jail sentence.

Friday's demonstration was the latest in a series sponsored by the Milwaukee United School Integration Committee, of which Miss Morheuser is secretary.

The group contends that the new school, on the fringe of the inner core area, would be predominantly Negro and thus contribute to Milwaukee's alleged de facto segregation.

G7 Astronauts Streak Near Mid-Flight Point

Space Center, Houston, Tex. (AP)—Their noses stuffy and their spacecraft shutters sometimes closed against the hot sun, the Gemini 7 pilots streaked Friday toward the half-way mark of their 14-day orbital journey. It comes at 10:15 a.m. CST Saturday.

Flight surgeons tried to prescribe an anti-allergy, decongestant pill for Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr. Unless it's "for medical research, I'd prefer not to," Lovell replied.

Otherwise, both he and Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman were in fine shape as their Gemini 7 spacecraft clipped off the miles and minutes toward Sunday's date in space with a Gemini sistership.

Suit Switch

After a long meeting concerning the spacesuit situation,' flight director Christopher C. Kraft Jr. sent radio orders that Lovell was to put his lightweight space suit back on and Borman was to take his off until the hours before rendezvous when both astronauts must wear their full pressure suits.

Borman made a spirited attempt to get mission control to change its collective mind.

Borman said he was willing to stay in his space suit, letting Lovell fly in the comfort of his short-sleeved, longjohn underwear for another day before Lovell dons his spacesuit again. Borman said he could then remove his spacesuit for the period following rendezvous and before reentry. Mission control was adamant and overruled the astronauts' desires.

The Gemini 7 astronauts were kept fully informed on the progress of their fellow Gemini 6 astronauts at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The Gemini 6 blasts off at 8:54 a.m. CST Sunday for a 103,000-mile space chase after Gemini 7. When they meet, they will fly formation for perhaps six hours, coming perhaps within inches of one another.

It is a full dress rehearsal for a moon-flight technique essential to a moon-landing.

India Premier To Come To United States Feb. 1

New Delhi, India (AP)—Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri announced Friday he will go to the United States Feb. 1 to meet President Johnson and expressed confidence this will lead to a "closer understanding" between India and America.

In Texas, a spokesman said President Johnson is "looking forward to the meeting." Shastri's announcement followed Johnson's order Thursday for a speedup of shipments of 1.5 million tons of wheat to hungry India.

The moves by the two leaders appear to pave the way for an improvement in U.S.-India relations, for it is around these two points—the Shastri visit and American food shipments—that controversy developed in recent months.

Spring Delay

Shastri had been scheduled to travel to the United States last spring, but the White House requested a postponement on the grounds Johnson was busy with congressional affairs and the war in Viet Nam.

Anger developed in India, with the postponement being interpreted as a rebuke by Washington for Shastri's repeated criticism of U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam.

There has been considerable opposition in India to Shastri visiting Washington. Some of his political opponents say they fear it will appear he is going to ask Johnson for more food for India's 480 millions.

Overcoming It

Johnson's order for a more rapid shipment of wheat before Shastri's announcement presumably served to remove that fear. It takes about six weeks to get a shipload of wheat to India, so the first batch of wheat covered by Johnson's speedup order probably will arrive here about the time Shastri gets to America.

Shastri told parliament he would like to express his sincere thanks to Johnson for the "accelerated food aid which would help substantially in tiding over the present difficult food situation."

India is facing a grinding food deficit—as much as 14 million tons by some estimates—and there is a great worry in the capital that famine could be ahead.

Shastri will be seeing the U.S. President after meeting with President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan in Tashkent next month. Ayub arrived in London Friday on his way to the United States for talks with President Johnson next week.

Russians Promise To Abide By U.N. Space Weapon Ban

Washington (UPI)—Russia has assured the United States it will continue to abide by a 1963 United Nations resolution against placing weapons of mass destruction in outer space, the State Department said Friday.

Department spokesman Marshall Wright also reported that Jan. 27 has been set as the date for reconvening an 18-nation disarmament conference, including Russia, in Geneva. One topic will be consideration of the treaty against spread of nuclear weapons to more nations.

The question of the 1963 U.N. resolution was raised after Russia displayed a 115-foot, three-stage rocket described as an "orbital missile" in a Moscow military parade Nov. 7.

Llewellyn Thompson, Soviet affairs specialist of the State Department, put the question directly to Russian Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in a Nov. 15 meeting.

Last Wednesday Dobrynin returned to State Department and orally gave Russia's reply. He said, in effect, that Russia was abiding by and would continue to abide by the U.N. resolution.

"We welcome this statement of intent by the Soviet government to abide by the resolution," Wright said.

It takes about six weeks to get a shipload of wheat to India, so the first batch of wheat covered by Johnson's speedup order probably will arrive here about the time Shastri gets to America.

Shastri told parliament he would like to express his sincere thanks to Johnson for the "accelerated food aid which would help substantially in tiding over the present difficult food situation."

India is facing a grinding food deficit—as much as 14 million tons by some estimates—and there is a great worry in the capital that famine could be ahead.

Russians Promise To Abide By U.N. Space Weapon Ban

Washington (UPI)—Russia has assured the United States it will continue to abide by a 1963 United Nations resolution against placing weapons of mass destruction in outer space, the State Department said Friday.

Department spokesman Marshall Wright also reported that Jan. 27 has been set as the date for reconvening an 18-nation disarmament conference, including Russia, in Geneva. One topic will be consideration of the treaty against spread of nuclear weapons to more nations.

The question of the 1963 U.N. resolution was raised after Russia displayed a 115-foot, three-stage rocket described as an "orbital missile" in a Moscow military parade Nov. 7.

Llewellyn Thompson, Soviet affairs specialist of the State Department, put the question directly to Russian Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in a Nov. 15 meeting.

Last Wednesday Dobrynin returned to State Department and orally gave Russia's reply. He said, in effect, that Russia was abiding by and would continue to abide by the U.N. resolution.

"We welcome this statement of intent by the Soviet government to abide by the resolution," Wright said.

Among its most important achievements, he said, was the statement of religious liberty. The proclamation was directed at lifting the blame for the crucifixion from the Jews, he explained, and this "has been long overdue,"

"Some of my relatives in Ireland long ago probably were sheep thieves," he said. "But I never stole any sheep. It would be silly to punish me."

Power Ruling Expected By First Of Year

Columbus (AP)—The deadline for filing briefs and answers in a lawsuit attacking the constitutionality of the power district merger bill was reached Friday and District Judge C. Thomas White has taken them under advisement.

Judge White said he must determine whether or not the pleadings constitute a cause for action to bring the case to trial or else he must determine the constitutionality of the bill. He said he hoped to hand down his ruling by the first of the year.

The suit was brought by Clarence Wittler of Humphrey, as a bondholder. Wittler is president of the Loup River Public Power District, which would be included in the merger with the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District of North Platte and Consumers Public Power District of Columbus.

One question which may be answered in this case is whether the Omaha Public Power District should be included in the merger.

Power Ruling Expected By First Of Year

Columbus (AP)—The deadline for filing briefs and answers in a lawsuit attacking the constitutionality of the power district merger bill was reached Friday and District Judge C. Thomas White has taken them under advisement.

Judge White said he must determine whether or not the pleadings constitute a cause for action to bring the case to trial or else he must determine the constitutionality of the bill. He said he hoped to hand down his ruling by the first of the year.

The suit was brought by Clarence Wittler of Humphrey, as a bondholder. Wittler is president of the Loup River Public Power District, which would be included in the merger with the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District of North Platte and Consumers Public Power District of Columbus.

One question which may be answered in this case is whether the Omaha Public Power District should be included in the merger.

Easier Said Than Done

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Supporters of a newly organized group dedicated to a worldwide conquest of hunger are absolutely right when they claim that current agricultural programs are immoral and unwise. They and the new committee have the overwhelming support of the American people in what they would like to do. They would like the productive capacity of American farms turned loose to feed the hungry people of the world.

The thought is far from a new one. Also, it is strongly supported by President Johnson and probably most of Congress. Why, then, isn't it done? It isn't done because no one has figured out how to do it. What some of the dreamers don't talk about is the cost of such an effort. American farmers could produce enough to feed many more millions of people than they now provide for but not for nothing. American farmers would love to have a market of millions of people in foreign lands opened up to them and these farmers can see, too, the moral grounds for doing so.

Prohibition Of Cost

But the American farmer is a private citizen and cannot play Santa Claus to the rest of the world any more than any other private citizen can do so. Heavy equipment manufacturers could equip the poor nations of the world, too, in a wonderful display of moral courage but they can't afford it. American builders could provide schools, roads, housing and other things in foreign lands and it would be a find, humane thing to do but they can't affort it.

In addition to the wisdom and morality of feeding the hungry people of the world, we have the economics of doing so. If it were also economical as well as moral and wise to feed the world, then you could be assured that the United States would already be doing so. The question is who is going to pick up the tab for such a mammoth handout?

Some money for such a program could be obtained through the current Department of Agriculture programs of support. Perhaps as much as $2 billion might become available for sending food to foreign lands if all price support and acreage control payment programs were eliminated, and they could be eliminated if we were attempting to feed the world. If the American farmer had a ready market for all he could produce, there would be no need for supports, although price would then become an all important factor. But $2 billion wouldn't be a drop in the bucket when it comes to feeding millions and millions of people. The federal government is already spending almost that amount in foreign aid through foodstuffs and hardly anyone even knows it.

The sad fact is that feeding the hungry people of the world could become an item of economic proportions equal to that of national defense. One can argue the morality of feeding the world over weapons of human destruction but it isn't a very realistic attitude. In addition to who might pay for a world-feeding program, there is the question of distribution and the question of impact upon American agriculture. Is American agriculture so situated that every available acre in the country could be turned to productive efforts overnight; Do we have the modern machinery and available manpower to actually produce all that the land and other natural resources are capable of producing? The nation could add perhaps 30 to 35 percent more land to production than is now being used. But the land would have to be worked by men and machines.

Further, if we concentrated on improved techniques, seeds, breeds, etc., we could run our current production probably to double what it is today. Think, then, of the fantastic shot this would give the economy. It is possible that such a program would stimulate an inflationary binge never before known to the country. Thus, economists would have to give careful thought to any program for feeding the world.

Nor have we any notions as to how to lick the problem of distribution. One cannot even set up an international soup and bread line without a lot of problems. How do we go about getting our food into the hands of those who need it without profiteering, without destroying initiative and without fomenting political intrigue throughout the world?

Objective Not In Dispute

The latter problem is at least one of challenge to the intellect and a solution might be found but the problem of paying the bill is even more complex and baffling than the matter of distribution. One wonders if that economic stumbling block is one that could ever be cleared. There can be no disagreement with the objective of any war on hunger throughout the world as such a program strikes at the roots of our moral understandings. Certainly it is wrong for people in the world to be starving when there are places in the world where there is too much abundance.

But the world, unfortunately, is limited by many things, including the confines of its wisdom. We don't like to speak in terms of impossibilities but we must admit that we have not yet figured out all the possibilities. We have developed a complex social and economic order that hems us in as well as providing us with many opportunities.

Many Cruise Ships Can't Pass Muster

WASHINGTON — To prevent another disaster at sea like the recent Yarmouth Castle fire, the Coast Guard is taking a sharper look at the old, foreign-flag ships which pick up passengers in Florida for winter cruises in the Caribbean.

Most of these ships — including the Yarmouth, Florida, Viking Princess, Bahama Star, and Adriadne — are creaky, old vessels filled with combustible bulkheads and furnishings.

John Smith Jr., former president of the Caribbean Cruise Lines, has admitted that one ship was built in 1914. Though it has been remodeled and modernized, this old hulk still operates out of Miami.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Coast Guard is also keeping a weather eye on a few old American ships which are loaded with inflammable material.

All these American ships meet the minimum safety standards set by the Coast Guard. However, the Coast Guard has only limited authority over ships flying the flags of nations that have signed the 1948 or 1960 Safety of Life at Sea Conventions. They must adhere to international standards which aren't as strict as American standards.

For example, Mexico was not a signatory in 1961 when one of its cruise ships, the S.S. Acapulco, sought to operate out of U.S. ports. The Coast Guard, after an inspection, refused to certify it, so the first cruise in December 1961 was cancelled.

Mexico promptly signed the international convention, whereupon the Coast Guard was obliged to grant the S.S. Acapulco a certificate as a foreign passenger vessel.

Most of the cruise ships now operating out of Florida are foreign-flag vessels and therefore don't have to comply with the stricter American regulations. Built in America, the owners registered them under Panamanian or Liberian flags in order to avoid U.S. safety regulations.

The Coast Guard had received many ominous complaints about the ill-fated Yarmouth Castle before she finally burst into flames and went down in the Bahamas at a cost of 89 lives. Here's what the record shows:

In 1964, the Coast Guard temporarily revoked the Yarmouth Castle's certificate, thus prohibiting her from picking up passengers in U.S. ports, because the crew wasn't properly trained for fire and life boat drills.

The ship ran out of water, ran short of fuel, and operated 15 hours behind schedule on each of four sailings for Caribbean Cruise Lines.

Late in 1964, the machinery finally broke down, and the ship was laid up several weeks for repairs.

By DON WALTON

'Tis the season to be polling.

The new year, an election year, is but three short weeks away and political decisions from a host of candidates and near-candidates will be required soon. Filings are due in March.

Walton

Thus, the polls. Both political parties will survey the electorate to try to help pinpoint their strongest possible candidates and to assist in defining useful issues.

A GOP poll earlier this year pointed to Val Peterson as the party's strongest gubernatorial aspirant. He has since announced his candidacy, and plans to file next year.

Both parties are curious about the outlook on a Curtis-Morrison Senate clash. Some Democrats want to see how Phil Sorensen looks in a gubernatorial poll.

The much-publicized postcard poll undertaken in the past week or so for clients other than political parties and potential candidates will nevertheless be put to use by at least one political figure, perhaps help him decide his future course of action.

Other surveys are in the wind.

Political polling has been developed in recent years into a useful tool, one which helps guide decisions, but not dictate them.

Polling is a highly scientific business.

To be accurate, polls require a blending of age, occupation, income, geography, sex, political persuasion, every conceivable shading of the public personality mixed proportionately according to the total population. And then a poll is only accurate for a given point in time; all may change in a month or two.

The more scientific (and thus the more accurate) a poll is likely to be, the more expensive it is. So some surveys skip some of the blending, thus hold down the cost and still provide some indication of public sentiment.

It is also important to note how an issue may be presented to the poll participant in order to properly weigh the significance of his response.

The recent postcard poll seeks a measure of public sentiment on the proposed constitutional amendment which would permit public bus transportation for private and parochial school students.

But the phrasing of the question does not truly inform the poll participant as to the issue. How would you vote, the poll asks, "on constitutional amendment authorizing transportation for school children?"

Actually, the phrasing of the issue on the 1966 general election ballot will not be much more helpful. It will request the voter to pass judgment on the "constitutional amendment authorizing transportation services for children attending any elementary or secondary school."

But, presumably, the voter should be able to identify the issue on the ballot next November after supporters and opponents of the amendment have completed a lengthy campaign outlining the question.

In any event, the public mind is in for some testing.

How, for instance, do Nebraskans react to the U.S. war effort in Vietnam? And could this reaction seep into a Senate campaign in Nebraska? And who would it help or hurt?

Are the old issues — national debt, deficit spending, foreign aid, morality in government — really useful to the Republicans anymore?

What do Nebraskans want? What concerns them? What would make them likely to support a certain candidate in a national race or a state race?

If the answers to questions like those could be determined prior to the 1966 election campaign, it would be most useful to Nebraska's political parties. In some instances, in some manner, they will be sought.

Filling the void:

The average congressman spends 59.9 hours per week at his job while Congress is in session. A major protion of the work week, 17.1 hours, is consumed on constituent affairs.

The average congressman reads 4.8 daily newspapers; 7.7 weekly newspapers; 5.1 periodicals, and 1.6 non-fiction books per month.

A congressman's office receives an average of 469 pieces of mail per week.

Plight Of The Poor

Speaking of low-wage workers and the need for a $2 minimum wage, AFL-CIO President George Meany said: "They are poor. They are hungry. Their children suffer. They need our help now, today." And there is little doubt that they will get the help of the giant labor organization.

But will they get a $2 minimum wage? What Meany is saying is that there is a moral dictate for the payment of a $2 minimum wage. The only trouble with that is that there is not necessarily an economic dictate to go along with it.

It is possible that Mr. Meany may even be correct from an economic point of view but this is the challenge he faces. Perhaps the economy can support a $2 minimum wage just as it now supports a minimum wage of $1.25 but not without some painful readjustments.

The higher minimum wage would add burdens to some business and industry that simply could not be absorbed without offsetting actions. Either employment would have to be cut or prices raised and neither of those is a commendable alternative.

While Meany is expected to pursue the new minimum wage figure, it is hoped he also takes a look at productivity. The problem of the low-wage worker could also be solved if that worker were qualified for more productive labor and had the opportunity of obtaining it.

Meany might also consider a progressive minimum wage, one that applied its maximum after a specified length of employment such as three or four or five years. Even that would accomplish a great deal while encouraging stability and contributing to an orderly adjustment on the part of business and industry.

The Stewardess And Her Age

Representatives of the Transport Workers Union and the Airline Pilots Association have gone to the New York State Commission for Human Rights demanding the age restriction on airline stewardesses be abandoned.

Ever since the airlines thought up the neat trick of putting gorgeous, young single girls, in natty uniforms, to add artistry to the business of hauling passengers through the air, without thought of danger, the retirement age for these young beauties has ranged from 32 to 35. The assumption was the girls would be grounded by marriage before the old age of the 30's caught up with them. And it has been largely true. But some of the girls who would not go for the marriage bit, and the union, are taking the loftier view of human rights which they believe should extend beyond one's thirties.

We grant that the airlines were not engaged in that branch of the humanities when it went for the stewardess gimmick. It was another branch whose inviolate rule is that men will buy anything if there is a pretty girl attached, even if they can't touch.

But on the other hand little can be gained for the rights of women in this instance by taking the case to a New York commission for human rights. The sovereignty of that commission, whatever it is, does not extend beyond the state's lines, while stewardesses fly clear across the country over passing many states, each of which could have a different view of the age of stewardesses.

This monumental question clearly is one for federal review and is a misfit in the case of states rights.

To Read A Book

From the Christian Science Moniter

The ubiquitous paperback book has become a fixture in American high school and college education over the last 15 or so years. While the paperback has become respectable, if not always worthwhile, has the formal textbook been losing the respect of students in some primary and secondary schools?

A professor of English at the University of Michigan offers provocative observations suggesting that is the case. From what educators have learned of relationships between poverty and the learning process, Daniel Fader's thesis is especially interesting. His unorthodox suggestions are worth a try.

Textbooks have become "symbols and causes of failure" in inner-city schools, Prof. Fader contends. Culturally-deprived children simply "tune themselves out," and refuse to read. He would build the curriculum of the lower half of such student groups around paperbacks, newspapers and magazines.

Prof. Fader cites a pilot project at Michigan Reformatory for Boys. After 11 months of exposure to less formal and more popular publications than textbooks, the boys exhibited a respect for and enjoyment of reading they had never shown before. Surely they had become more receptive to ideas and advice.

Battle Looms Over Fed Reserve Action

WASHINGTON—As though the air were not sufficiently charged with political tension, Chairman William McChesney Martin's action in casting the deciding vote for the higher interest rates ordered by the Federal Reserve Board adds a new element. The reaction of the stock market, particularly in bank stocks, makes it plain this was a welcome Christmas present for the financial community.

When Congress comes back there will be angry cries for Martin's head. The most impassioned screams of outrage have come from those who still speak for the Populist South and Southwest, notably Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana and Rep. Wright Patman of Texas. Theirs is the loud echo of William Jennings Bryan — the "Cross Of Gold," the "conspiracy of the Wall Street bankers," the farmer and the working man caught in the money squeeze.

It so happens that both Long and Patman ware powerfully placed to direct an attack on the Federal Reserve stockade in the best tradition of the Old West. Long has said he intends to take the chairmanship of the Senate Finance Committee left vacant by the retirement of that gracious guardian of the financial establishment, Harry F. Byrd. At the same time, Long means to keep his post as majority whip, second in importance only to that of majority leader.

As chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, Patman has kept up a constant harassing attack on Martin and "tight money." As the unadulterated voice of Populism, he is as loathed by the powers that be in oil and banking in his native Texas as he is in Wall Street.

But because of his wide-ranging knowledge of the economy and how it operates —he was for many years professor of economics at the University of Chicago — the opposition of Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois will have a greater weight. Bankers themselves concede in their more candid moments that Douglas knows as much about the mysteries of finance and the money market as anyone in this capital, not excluding Martin himself.

Out of this background Douglas challenges the heart of the argument for higher interest rates. He contends that inflation is not a threat today since the United States has had the lowest increase in prices of any industrialized western country. On the face of it the record is phenomenal — a 3½ percent rise in wholesale prices, using the 1957-59 level as a base.

Western European countries have had rises as high as 10 and 12 percent in the same period of full or virtually full employment.

It happens that Douglas is up for re-election next year. His opponent will almost certainly be industrialist Charles H. Percy, who is cast in the role of a John Lindsay — the New York City mayor-elect — with a more moderate cast. Percy was defeated for governor last year when he got caught in the Goldwater undertow. He is young (46), dynamic, personable.

Yes And No

Roca, Neb.

In a recent issue, Rev. Alan J. Pickering in justifying the protest demonstrations argued that dissent is a patriotic and democratic function of our society, which is dangerous to stifle.

A recent news account told of an anti-ecumenical group. Evidently some church people disapprove of our increasing theological togetherness.

But does Rev. Pickering applaud this dissent, this evidence of the vitality of our democratic processes? Alas, no. He expresses "concern" about this organization, which he says "is prompted by human selfishness." Liberal demonstrations which may engender hatred and disloyalty — YES. Conservative actions which may engender hatred — NO! NO! NO!

Belleville, Kan.

If we will but study the bank robbery, we will find that Pope had been up in that part of the country with harvesters, he was aware and knew that this bank was there and that it was a small town with almost no police protection.

He purchased a fine revolver and worked out a silencer. Three innocent persons were shot and killed, all employed in the bank, and one poor fellow only 26 years of age was left a cripple for life and nearly helpless.

Mr. Pope had a college education at McPherson College, and therefore should have known right from wrong. We must see that murder laws are properly carried out and that persons violating same receive the punishment that the law provides. I was a county attorney for four years and know something about criminal law prosecution.

Lonely Day

Denver, Colo.

The other day I was going through some papers and found an old Star clipping, discarded like so many of us older people. It made me rather sad to read it. It would be nice to bring back memories to our forgotten loved ones.

It spoke of Christmas as being a time of good fellowship and companionship, a time of family gatherings and gifts. But it told, too, that there would be many to whom Christmas would be just another day, those who have reached the "golden years." For them, there would be no gifts, no calls, no friendly greeting or tiny remembrance. Some of them live in nursing homes, some in dreary rooms, some just down the street in well-kept little houses. But they all have one thing in common, loneliness at Christmas.

It isn't difficult to find these people, the clipping stated, and some do it—with a gift, a box of candy, a pretty apron, or a plateful of cookies. Those who have done it year after year say it's the most wonderful part of their day.

Others who find Christmas "just another day" are new couples in the neighborhood, foreign students attending school here, orphans in the many children's homes.

Speaking Out

Chicago, Ill.

Senator Clifton B. Batchelder rendered a distinguished public service, it seems to me, in his speaking out, as reported in The Star of November 19, regarding the performance of the senators of the Unicameral during their recent session. And it seems to me, in his speaking out, Senator Batchelder displayed fine restraint. The senators not only accepted the assault of communism as par for the course but made common cause with it among themselves, whether consciously or not, by voting our own money to further each one's favorite boondoggle.

Not only will private colleges and private vocational technical schools be forced out of business, but I believe the University of Nebraska itself will be emasculated in its effectiveness by the "you take this tax dollar for your pet boondoggle in your town and I will take that tax dollar for my pet boondoggle in my town" arrangement. If I remember correctly, the Legislature passed a bill which will phase out practice teaching facilities at the university within four years, while driver-training courses remain in the curriculum of high schools generally throughout the state. # Easier Said Than Done

Supporters of a newly organized group dedicated to a worldwide conquest of hunger are absolutely right when they claim that current agricultural programs are immoral and unwise. They and the new committee have the overwhelming support of the American people in what they would like to do. They would like the productive capacity of American farms turned loose to feed the hungry people of the world.

The thought is far from a new one. Also, it is strongly supported by President Johnson and probably most of Congress. Why, then, isn't it done? It isn't done because no one has figured out how to do it. What some of the dreamers don't talk about is the cost of such an effort. American farmers could produce enough to feed many more millions of people than they now provide for but not for nothing. American farmers would love to have a market of millions of people in foreign lands opened up to them and these farmers can see, too, the moral grounds for doing so.

Prohibition Of Cost

But the American farmer is a private citizen and cannot play Santa Claus to the rest of the world any more than any other private citizen can do so. Heavy equipment manufacturers could equip the poor nations of the world, too, in a wonderful display of moral courage but they can't afford it. American builders could provide schools, roads, housing and other things in foreign lands and it would be a find, humane thing to do but they can't affort it.

In addition to the wisdom and morality of feeding the hungry people of the world, we have the economics of doing so. If it were also economical as well as moral and wise to feed the world, then you could be assured that the United States would already be doing so. The question is who is going to pick up the tab for such a mammoth handout?

Some money for such a program could be obtained through the current Department of Agriculture programs of support. Perhaps as much as $2 billion might become available for sending food to foreign lands if all price support and acreage control payment programs were eliminated, and they could be eliminated if we were attempting to feed the world. If the American farmer had a ready market for all he could produce, there would be no need for supports, although price would then become an all important factor. But $2 billion wouldn't be a drop in the bucket when it comes to feeding millions and millions of people. The federal government is already spending almost that amount in foreign aid through foodstuffs and hardly anyone even knows it.

The sad fact is that feeding the hungry people of the world could become an item of economic proportions equal to that of national defense. One can argue the morality of feeding the world over weapons of human destruction but it isn't a very realistic attitude. In addition to who might pay for a world-feeding program, there is the question of distribution and the question of impact upon American agriculture. Is American agriculture so situated that every available acre in the country could be turned to productive efforts overnight; Do we have the modern machinery and available manpower to actually produce all that the land and other natural resources are capable of producing? The nation could add perhaps 30 to 35 percent more land to production than is now being used. But the land would have to be worked by men and machines.

Further, if we concentrated on improved techniques, seeds, breeds, etc., we could run our current production probably to double what it is today. Think, then, of the fantastic shot this would give the economy. It is possible that such a program would stimulate an inflationary binge never before known to the country. Thus, economists would have to give careful thought to any program for feeding the world.

Nor have we any notions as to how to lick the problem of distribution. One cannot even set up an international soup and bread line without a lot of problems. How do we go about getting our food into the hands of those who need it without profiteering, without destroying initiative and without fomenting political intrigue throughout the world?

The latter problem is at least one of challenge to the intellect and a solution might be found but the problem of paying the bill is even more complex and baffling than the matter of distribution. One wonders if that economic stumbling block is one that could ever be cleared. There can be no disagreement with the objective of any war on hunger throughout the world as such a program strikes at the roots of our moral understandings. Certainly it is wrong for people in the world to be starving when there are places in the world where there is too much abundance.

Objective Not In Dispute

But the world, unfortunately, is limited by many things, including the confines of its wisdom. We don't like to speak in terms of impossibilities but we must admit that we have not yet figured out all the possibilities. We have developed a complex social and economic order that hems us in as well as providing us with many opportunities.

Plight Of The Poor

Speaking of low-wage workers and the need for a $2 minimum wage, AFL-CIO President George Meany said: "They are poor. They are hungry. Their children suffer. They need our help now, today." And there is little doubt that they will get the help of the giant labor organization.

But will they get a $2 minimum wage? What Meany is saying is that there is a moral dictate for the payment of a $2 minimum wage. The only trouble with that is that there is not necessarily an economic dictate to go along with it.

It is possible that Mr. Meany may even be correct from an economic point of view but this is the challenge he faces. Perhaps the economy can support a $2 minimum wage just as it now supports a minimum wage of $1.25 but not without some painful readjustments.

The higher minimum wage would add burdens to some business and industry that simply could not be absorbed without offsetting actions. Either employment would have to be cut or prices raised and neither of those is a commendable alternative.

While Meany is expected to pursue the new minimum wage figure, it is hoped he also takes a look at productivity. The problem of the low-wage worker could also be solved if that worker were qualified for more productive labor and had the opportunity of obtaining it.

Meany might also consider a progressive minimum wage, one that applied its maximum after a specified length of employment such as three or four or five years. Even that would accomplish a great deal while encouraging stability and contributing to an orderly adjustment on the part of business and industry.

The Stewardess And Her Age

Representatives of the Transport Workers Union and the Airline Pilots Association have gone to the New York State Commission for Human Rights demanding the age restriction on airline stewardesses be abandoned.

Ever since the airlines thought up the neat trick of putting gorgeous, young single girls, in natty uniforms, to add artistry to the business of hauling passengers through the air, without thought of danger, the retirement age for these young beauties has ranged from 32 to 35. The assumption was the girls would be grounded by marriage before the old age of the 30's caught up with them. And it has been largely true. But some of the girls who would not go for the marriage bit, and the union, are taking the loftier view of human rights which they believe should extend beyond one's thirties.

We grant that the airlines were not engaged in that branch of the humanities when it went for the stewardess gimmick. It was another branch whose inviolate rule is that men will buy anything if there is a pretty girl attached, even if they can't touch.

But on the other hand little can be gained for the rights of women in this instance by taking the case to a New York commission for human rights. The sovereignty of that commission, whatever it is, does not extend beyond the state's lines, while stewardesses fly clear across the country over passing many states, each of which could have a different view of the age of stewardesses.

This monumental question clearly is one for federal review and is a misfit in the case of states rights.

To Read A Book

From the Christian Science Moniter

The ubiquitous paperback book has become a fixture in American high school and college education over the last 15 or so years. While the paperback has become respectable, if not always worthwhile, has the formal textbook been losing the respect of students in some primary and secondary schools?

A professor of English at the University of Michigan offers provocative observations suggesting that is the case. From what educators have learned of relationships between poverty and the learning process, Daniel Fader's thesis is especially interesting. His unorthodox suggestions are worth a try.

Textbooks have become "symbols and causes of failure" in inner-city schools, Prof. Fader contends. Culturally-deprived children simply "tune themselves out," and refuse to read. He would build the curriculum of the lower half of such student groups around paperbacks, newspapers and magazines.

Prof. Fader cites a pilot project at Michigan Reformatory for Boys. After 11 months of exposure to less formal and more popular publications than textbooks, the boys exhibited a respect for and enjoyment of reading they had never shown before. Surely they had become more receptive to ideas and advice.

Many Cruise Ships Can't Pass Muster

WASHINGTON — To prevent another disaster at sea like the recent Yarmouth Castle fire, the Coast Guard is taking a sharper look at the old, foreign-flag ships which pick up passengers in Florida for winter cruises in the Caribbean.

Most of these ships — including the Yarmouth, Florida, Viking Princess, Bahama Star, and Adriadne — are creaky, old vessels filled with combustible bulkheads and furnishings.

John Smith Jr., former president of the Caribbean Cruise Lines, has admitted that one ship was built in 1914. Though it has been remodeled and modernized, this old hulk still operates out of Miami.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Coast Guard is also keeping a weather eye on a few old American ships which are loaded with inflammable material.

All these American ships meet the minimum safety standards set by the Coast Guard. However, the Coast Guard has only limited authority over ships flying the flags of nations that have signed the 1948 or 1960 Safety of Life at Sea Conventions. They must adhere to international standards which aren't as strict as American standards.

For example, Mexico was not a signatory in 1961 when one of its cruise ships, the S.S. Acapulco, sought to operate out of U.S. ports. The Coast Guard, after an inspection, refused to certify it, so the first cruise in December 1961 was cancelled.

Mexico promptly signed the international convention, whereupon the Coast Guard was obliged to grant the S.S. Acapulco a certificate as a foreign passenger vessel.

Most of the cruise ships now operating out of Florida are foreign-flag vessels and therefore don't have to comply with the stricter American regulations. Built in America, the owners registered them under Panamanian or Liberian flags in order to avoid U.S. safety regulations.

The Coast Guard had received many ominous complaints about the ill-fated Yarmouth Castle before she finally burst into flames and went down in the Bahamas at a cost of 89 lives. Here's what the record shows:

In 1964, the Coast Guard temporarily revoked the Yarmouth Castle's certificate, thus prohibiting her from picking up passengers in U.S. ports, because the crew wasn't properly trained for fire and life boat drills.

The ship ran out of water, ran short of fuel, and operated 15 hours behind schedule on each of four sailings for Caribbean Cruise Lines.

Late in 1964, the machinery finally broke down, and the ship was laid up several weeks for repairs.

Battle Looms Over Fed Reserve Action

WASHINGTON—As though the air were not sufficiently charged with political tension, Chairman William McChesney Martin's action in casting the deciding vote for the higher interest rates ordered by the Federal Reserve Board adds a new element. The reaction of the stock market, particularly in bank stocks, makes it plain this was a welcome Christmas present for the financial community.

When Congress comes back there will be angry cries for Martin's head. The most impassioned screams of outrage have come from those who still speak for the Populist South and Southwest, notably Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana and Rep. Wright Patman of Texas. Theirs is the loud echo of William Jennings Bryan — the "Cross Of Gold," the "conspiracy of the Wall Street bankers," the farmer and the working man caught in the money squeeze.

It so happens that both Long and Patman ware powerfully placed to direct an attack on the Federal Reserve stockade in the best tradition of the Old West. Long has said he intends to take the chairmanship of the Senate Finance Committee left vacant by the retirement of that gracious guardian of the financial establishment, Harry F. Byrd. At the same time, Long means to keep his post as majority whip, second in importance only to that of majority leader.

As chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, Patman has kept up a constant harassing attack on Martin and "tight money." As the unadulterated voice of Populism, he is as loathed by the powers that be in oil and banking in his native Texas as he is in Wall Street.

But because of his wide-ranging knowledge of the economy and how it operates —he was for many years professor of economics at the University of Chicago — the opposition of Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois will have a greater weight. Bankers themselves concede in their more candid moments that Douglas knows as much about the mysteries of finance and the money market as anyone in this capital, not excluding Martin himself.

Out of this background Douglas challenges the heart of the argument for higher interest rates. He contends that inflation is not a threat today since the United States has had the lowest increase in prices of any industrialized western country. On the face of it the record is phenomenal — a 3½ percent rise in wholesale prices, using the 1957-59 level as a base.

☆ ☆ ☆

Western European countries have had rises as high as 10 and 12 percent in the same period of full or virtually full employment.

It happens that Douglas is up for re-election next year. His opponent will almost certainly be industrialist Charles H. Percy, who is cast in the role of a John Lindsay — the New York City mayor-elect — with a nore moderate cast. Percy was defeated for governor last year when he got caught in the Goldwater undertow. He is young (46), dynamic, personable.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

'Tis the season to be polling.

The new year, an election year, is but three short weeks away and political decisions from a host of candidates and near-candidates will be required soon. Filings are due in March.

Walton

Thus, the polls. Both political parties will survey the electorate to try to help pinpoint their strongest possible candidates and to assist in defining useful issues.

A GOP poll earlier this year pointed to Val Peterson as the party's strongest gubernatorial aspirant. He has since announced his candidacy, and plans to file next year.

Both parties are curious about the outlook on a Curtis-Morrison Senate clash. Some Democrats want to see how Phil Sorensen looks in a gubernatorial poll.

The much-publicized postcard poll undertaken in the past week or so for clients other than political parties and potential candidates will nevertheless be put to use by at least one political figure, perhaps help him decide his future course of action.

Other surveys are in the wind.

Political polling has been developed in recent years into a useful tool, one which helps guide decisions, but not dictate them.

Polling is a highly scientific business.

To be accurate, polls require a blending of age, occupation, income, geography, sex, political persuasion, every conceivable shading of the public personality mixed proportionately according to the total population. And then a poll is only accurate for a given point in time; all may change in a month or two.

The more scientific (and thus the more accurate) a poll is likely to be, the more expensive it is. So some surveys skip some of the blending, thus hold down the cost and still provide some indication of public sentiment.

It is also important to note how an issue may be presented to the poll participant in order to properly weigh the significance of his response.

The recent postcard poll seeks a measure of public sentiment on the proposed constitutional amendment which would permit public bus transportation for private and parochial school students.

But the phrasing of the question does not truly inform the poll participant as to the issue. How would you vote, the poll asks, "on constitutional amendment authorizing transportation for school children?"

Actually, the phrasing of the issue on the 1966 general election ballot will not be much more helpful. It will request the voter to pass judgment on the "constitutional amendment authorizing transportation services for children attending any elementary or secondary school."

But, presumably, the voter should be able to identify the issue on the ballot next November after supporters and opponents of the amendment have completed a lengthy campaign outlining the question.

In any event, the public mind is in for some testing.

How, for instance, do Nebraskans react to the U.S. war effort in Vietnam? And could this reaction seep into a Senate campaign in Nebraska? And who would it help or hurt?

Are the old issues — national debt, deficit spending, foreign aid, morality in government — really useful to the Republicans anymore?

What do Nebraskans want? What concerns them? What would make them likely to support a certain candidate in a national race or a state race?

If the answers to questions like those could be determined prior to the 1966 election campaign, it would be most useful to Nebraska's political parties. In some instances, in some manner, they will be sought.

A congressman's office receives an average of 469 pieces of mail per week.

A recent news account told of an anti-ecumenical group. Evidently some church people disapprove of our increasing theological togetherness.

But does Rev. Pickering applaud this dissent, this evidence of the vitality of our democratic processes? Alas, no. ### Lonely Day

Denver, Colo.

The other day I was going through some papers and found an old Star clipping, discarded like so many of us older people. It made me rather sad to read it. It would be nice to bring back memories to our forgotten loved ones.

It spoke of Christmas as being a time of good fellowship and companionship, a time of family gatherings and gifts. But it told, too, that there would be many to whom Christmas would be just another day, those who have reached the "golden years." For them, there would be no gifts, no calls, no friendly greeting or tiny remembrance. Some of them live in nursing homes, some in dreary rooms, some just down the street in well-kept little houses. But they all have one thing in common, loneliness at Christmas.

It isn't difficult to find these people, the clipping stated, and some do it—with a gift, a box of candy, a pretty apron, or a plateful of cookies. Those who have done it year after year say it's the most wonderful part of their day.

Others who find Christmas "just another day" are new couples in the neighborhood, foreign students attending school here, orphans in the many children's homes.

Senator Clifton B. And it seems to me, in his speaking out, Senator Batchelder displayed fine restraint. The senators not only accepted the assault of communism as par for the course but made common cause with it among themselves, whether consciously or not, by voting our own money to further each one's favorite boondoggle.

Not only will private colleges and private vocational technical schools be forced out of business, but I believe the University of Nebraska itself will be emasculated in its effectiveness by the "you take this tax dollar for your pet boondoggle in your town and I will take that tax dollar for my pet boondoggle in my town" arrangement. # Power Board Authority Upheld

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The State Supreme Court Friday ruled that the Nebraska Power Review Board's authority extends into the wholesale electric field, as well as retail service.

The unanimous decision, which also upheld the constitutionality of the 1963 act which created the board, rendered the regulatory agency a more powerful body by removing doubts about its broad authority.

In the case at issue, the court sustained the board's decision granting Eastern Nebraska Public Power District (since merged with Omaha Public Power District) authority to serve the City of Peru at wholesale.

The City of Auburn, which also sought to serve Peru, had appealed the board's decision, and raised questions about the board's jurisdiction.

Widely Awaited

The court decision had been widely awaited within the power industry.

(Board Chairman William Norton of Osceola said the court decision is "in the best interests of Nebraska and a correct one. Now that the court has spoken, it will make it a great deal easier for us to know how to move.")

On the issue of the board's authority over construction of wholesale electric transmission facilities, the court stated:

"The plain language of the (1963) act confers power on the board to exercise its stated authority as to the construction of any transmission line carrying 700 volts of electric energy, whether for wholesale or retail sale by any public corporation specified in the act."

On constitutional issues raised by Auburn:

"We fail to see where there are any meritorious constitutional questions asserted under either the state or federal constitutions."

As to whether the court should sustain the board's findings in the case.

"The determination of the facts is peculiarly the province of the board and not this court.

"It is only where there is no evidence to sustain the board or, for some other reason, the record shows the action of the board to be arbitrary and unreasonable that this court may void the action of the board."

Evidence in the case is "sufficient to sustain the board's findings," the court stated.

Auburn's contention that the board's decision imparted a contract which it had already signed with Peru and the State Normal Board met the following response:

"The right of the city to contract, when the construction of such (700-volt) lines is material to the agreement, is limited by the requirements of the statute under consideration," that is by Power Board approval.

The court order was authored by Justice Edward F. Carter.

Dworak: Tax Hearings To Continue Until Law's Validity Is Resolved

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak Friday said his office and county assessors will continue to hold tax hearings under a law whose constitutionality remains unsolved.

He commented after the State Supreme Court dismissed on a technicality a case which would have determined the validity of the 1929 tax hearing law.

"This case didn't decide anything," Dworak said. "We're still assuming we have full powers to conduct hearings. "We'll continue to operate as we always have until this is fully adjudicated in the Supreme Court."

Several thousand taxpayers annually are called before county or state taxing officials to testify or present personal records dealing with their property holdings.

Dworak said most taxpayers in the past have been very cooperative at the hearings but the Supreme Court action may put a halt to that voluntary cooperation.

Taylor farmer Everett Satterfield refused to testify or present records concerning his 1963 personal tax return for intangible property during a hearing called by state officials last year.

The state charged him with violating the law requiring cooperation from taxpayers, but Satterfield contended the law is unconstitutional because it violates his right of protection against self-incrimination. He won a favorable Loup District Court Ruling.

The state appealed the lower court ruling to the Supreme Court, but the Supreme Court dismissed the appeal because the county attorney failed to file an application for leave to docket error proceedings.

Dworak said he expected another court test of the tax hearing law will come as soon as a taxpayer refuses to cooperate at a hearing.

The last Legislature amended the law to provide that taxpayers who decline to testify or present records at hearings are subject to contempt proceedings rather than criminal prosecution.

The law also was changed to give the state tax commissioner more clear authority to call tax hearings, and Dworak said his office plans to call more hearings in the near future.

Dodge County Court Ruling Affirmed In Lease Dispute

The Nebraska Supreme Court Friday affirmed a Dodge County District Court decision that the court had no jurisdiction in a dispute between Paul Christensen and the defunct Pathfinder Hotel Co. of Fremont.

Christensen had sued the hotel for allegedly breaking a lease agreement. The Supreme Court noted the hotel firm was dissolved in November of 1958 and said:

'Where a corporation has in fact been dissolved and no longer exists as a legal entity, the rule of its incapacity to sue or be sued applied regardless of the mode of dissolution whether by judicial decree or otherwise."

In other rulings Friday the court:

—Affirmed a Dodge County District Court ruling against Walter A. Koepplin in a contract dispute with the Pfister Hybrid Co. of Fremont, for which Koepplin served as manager from 1944 to 1962.

The lower court dismissed the case for lack of evidence, and the high court concurred. Koepplin had asked that his terminated contract with the seed company be restored.

—Overruled the Douglas County District Court's sustaining of a motion for a new trial concerning a damages suit against Lipsey Meat Co., Inc., of Omaha, and ordered the verdict of the jury reinstated.

The district court jury had awarded Robert D. Morford, a 46-year-old Omaha concrete and block mason, $20,000 for damages suffered in October of 1962 involving a Lipsey truck.

Edward Schoenthal was found hanging from a nylon ski two rope, with his neck in a cloth device for holding the neck to provide traction.

The device was designed to fit about the patient's neck and head, supporting part of the body's weight.

REA'S Request To Close Down Stations Denied

The State Railway Commission Friday dismissed the applications of the REA Express Agency of Denver, Colo., to close its agency stations at 35 small Nebraska communities.

The firm sought closing of the stations because it said the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) had given the Union Pacific Railroad authority to discontinue its trucking operations in Nebraska.

However, the commission said the ICC actually had only granted the Union Pacific authority to discontinue its Nebraska trucking operations on Interstate shipments of less than 6,000 pounds.

The REA Express had asked for permission to close down stations at Cortland, Pickrell, Polk, Callaway, Silver Creek, Clarks, Richland, Raymond, Weston, Valparaiso, Barneston, Elba, Dannebrog, Boelus, Scotia, North Loup, Shelby, Rising City, Chapman, Stapleton, Riverdale, Oconto, Amherst, Sumner, Monroe, Cedar Rapids, Primrose, Alexandria, Davenport, Carleton, Belvidere, Fairfield, Edgar, Glenvil and Doniphan.

In other actions the commission:

—Ordered officials of the Missouri Pacific Railroad to appear in Lincoln Dec. 20 to explain why the railroad has discontinued freight train service between Otoe and Avoca in eastern Nebraska.

Railroad officials told the commission in a letter that July rains washed out a bridge on the tracks between the two communities and the railroad intended to ask permission to abandon the line.

—Granted Hartman Telephone Exchanges, Inc., of Danbury authority to increase certain rates and charges.

Sense Of Humor Is Natural Talent

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. On television last night there was an old codger of 100 bubbling about his long life. He attributed it to his sense of humor. What does this mean and how can you get one?"

A. You've got a sense of humor if you laugh easily and refuse to take yourself seriously. if you're not blessed with this gift, I doubt if you can pick it up through a correspondence course. But I wouldn't worry about it. I've never seen any scientific evidence proving that those with easy grins outlive poker faces. Herbert Hoover was never credited with a sense of humor but he managed to hit 90.

Q. "I'm 72 and one of my lifelong ambitions has been to join the Caterpillar Club. I had a plane all lined up for my first parachute jump when the kids heard about it, stopped me cold, and started talking to the doctor about my head. Can't a man of 72 do what he wants?"

A. Take pleasure in the fact that your offspring seem to enjoy having you around. Parachute jumping for a neophyte of 72 is risky business and I don't think you should treat it as a retirement lark unless you're tired of drawing Social Security.

Q. "It makes me sick to think of the thousands of senior citizens cooped up in old folks homes. What are my chances of staying out of one?"

A. Very good. Less than five percent of all elders live in old folks homes or institutions. The rest live with members of their family or in private dwellings. Most physicians nowadays advocate that institutional living be reserved for folks who can no longer care for themselves.

Q. "How did age 65 ever get established as the standard age for retirement?"

A. Social historians say it goes back to the Germany of the 1880's when Prime Minister Bismarck's first social insurance program set 65 as the age of eligibility for certain government benefits. And we've been following it like sheep ever since.

Q. "My husband is an athlete by proxy. He sits in front of sports events on TV and waves his hands and shouts. That's the only exercise he gets, except for ambling to the refrigerator during commercials. He's only 42 but he's got a paunch and sagging jowls. How can I get him to change from spectator sports to physical activities which will trim down that avoirdpois?"

A. Start saving news clippings showing the high death rate among those who are overweight and fail to exercise. Serve him low-calorie meals. Get your doctor to talk with him. Plan a weekly hike or golf game. Most men know they should eat less and exercise more, but they need a lot of prodding from their wives.

Q. "I'll start receiving Social Security next year. Will my payments of $127 monthly be subject to income tax?"

A. No. Social Security benefits are exempt from taxes.

Power Board Authority Upheld

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The State Supreme Court Friday ruled that the Nebraska Power Review Board's authority extends into the wholesale electric field, as well as retail service.

The unanimous decision, which also upheld the constitutionality of the 1963 act which created the board, rendered the regulatory agency a more powerful body by removing doubts about its broad authority.

In the case at issue, the court sustained the board's decision granting Eastern Nebraska Public Power District (since merged with Omaha Public Power District) authority to serve the City of Peru at wholesale.

The City of Auburn, which also sought to serve Peru, had appealed the board's decision, and raised questions about the board's jurisdiction.

Widely Awaited

The court decision had been widely awaited within the power industry.

(Board Chairman William Norton of Osceola said the court decision is "in the best interests of Nebraska and a correct one. Now that the court has spoken, it will make it a great deal easier for us to know how to move.")

On the issue of the board's authority over construction of wholesale electric transmission facilities, the court stated:

"The plain language of the (1963) act confers power on the board to exercise its stated authority as to the construction of any transmission line carrying 700 volts of electric energy, whether for wholesale or retail sale by any public corporation specified in the act."

On constitutional issues raised by Auburn:

"We fail to see where there are any meritorious constitutional questions asserted under either the state or federal constitutions."

As to whether the court should sustain the board's findings in the case.

"The determination of the facts is peculiarly the province of the board and not this court.

"It is only where there is no evidence to sustain the board or, for some other reason, the record shows the action of the board to be arbitrary and unreasonable that this court may void the action of the board."

Evidence in the case is "sufficient to sustain the board's findings," the court stated.

Auburn's contention that the board's decision imparted a contract which it had already signed with Peru and the State Normal Board met the following response:

"The right of the city to contract, when the construction of such (700-volt) lines is material to the agreement, is limited by the requirements of the statute under consideration," that is by Power Board approval.

The court order was authored by Justice Edward F. Carter.

Dworak: Tax Hearings To Continue Until Law's Validity Is Resolved

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak Friday said his office and county assessors will continue to hold tax hearings under a law whose constitutionality remains unsolved.

He commented after the State Supreme Court dismissed on a technicality a case which would have determined the validity of the 1929 tax hearing law.

"This case didn't decide anything," Dworak said. "We're still assuming we have full powers to conduct hearings. "We'll continue to operate as we always have until this is fully adjudicated in the Supreme Court."

Several thousand taxpayers annually are called before county or state taxing officials to testify or present personal records dealing with their property holdings.

Dworak said most taxpayers in the past have been very cooperative at the hearings but the Supreme Court action may put a halt to that voluntary cooperation.

Taylor farmer Everett Satterfield refused to testify or present records concerning his 1963 personal tax return for intangible property during a hearing called by state officials last year.

The state charged him with violating the law requiring cooperation from taxpayers, but Satterfield contended the law is unconstitutional because it violates his right of protection against self-incrimination. He won a favorable Loup District Court Ruling.

The state appealed the lower court ruling to the Supreme Court, but the Supreme Court dismissed the appeal because the county attorney failed to file an application for leave to docket error proceedings.

Dworak said he expected another court test of the tax hearing law will come as soon as a taxpayer refuses to cooperate at a hearing.

The last Legislature amended the law to provide that taxpayers who decline to testify or present records at hearings are subject to contempt proceedings rather than criminal prosecution.

The law also was changed to give the state tax commissioner more clear authority to call tax hearings, and Dworak said his office plans to call more hearings in the near future.

Dodge County Court Ruling Affirmed In Lease Dispute

The Nebraska Supreme Court Friday affirmed a Dodge County District Court decision that the court had no jurisdiction in a dispute between Paul Christensen and the defunct Pathfinder Hotel Co. of Fremont.

Christensen had sued the hotel for allegedly breaking a lease agreement. The Supreme Court noted the hotel firm was dissolved in November of 1958 and said:

'Where a corporation has in fact been dissolved and no longer exists as a legal entity, the rule of its incapacity to sue or be sued applied regardless of the mode of dissolution whether by judicial decree or otherwise."

In other rulings Friday the court:

—Affirmed a Dodge County District Court ruling against Walter A. Koepplin in a contract dispute with the Pfister Hybrid Co. of Fremont, for which Koepplin served as manager from 1944 to 1962.

The lower court dismissed the case for lack of evidence, and the high court concurred. Koepplin had asked that his terminated contract with the seed company be restored.

—Overruled the Douglas County District Court's sustaining of a motion for a new trial concerning a damages suit against Lipsey Meat Co., Inc., of Omaha, and ordered the verdict of the jury reinstated.

The district court jury had awarded Robert D. Morford, a 46-year-old Omaha concrete and block mason, $20,000 for damages suffered in October of 1962 involving a Lipsey truck.

Meet Star Carrier James Dahlke

James

James Dahlke, a ninth grader at Whittier Junior High, wants to follow in his late father's footsteps and become a mechanic. The money he is saving from the profits he makes as a carrier for The Lincoln Star may help to pay his expenses at a trade school someday.

James delivers papers in the area from Center to Adams and from 27th to 33rd, and is the son of Mrs. Irene Dahlke.

In his spare time, James is active in sports. He has played split end for the police football team for three seasons and enjoys swimming and basketball playing at the YMCA.

At his school, James is chairman of the properties committee.

The 15-year-old youth feels that the experience his steadily expanding route is giving him will be very helpful in the future.

Schoenthal Death Ruled Accidental

Omaha (AP)—A treatment for back trouble resulted in Acting Coroner George Sullivan ruling a 49-year-old Omaha man died accidentally.

Edward Schoenthal was found hanging from a nylon ski two rope, with his neck in a cloth device for holding the neck to provide traction.

REA'S Request To Close Down Stations Denied

The State Railway Commission Friday dismissed the applications of the REA Express Agency of Denver, Colo., to close its agency stations at 35 small Nebraska communities.

The firm sought closing of the stations because it said the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) had given the Union Pacific Railroad authority to discontinue its trucking operations in Nebraska.

However, the commission said the ICC actually had only granted the Union Pacific authority to discontinue its Nebraska trucking operations on Interstate shipments of less than 6,000 pounds.

The REA Express had asked for permission to close down stations at Cortland, Pickrell, Polk, Callaway, Silver Creek, Clarks, Richland, Raymond, Weston, Valparaiso, Barneston, Elba, Dannebrog, Boelus, Scotia, North Loup, Shelby, Rising City, Chapman, Stapleton, Riverdale, Oconto, Amherst, Sumner, Monroe, Cedar Rapids, Primrose, Alexandria, Davenport, Carleton, Belvidere, Fairfield, Edgar, Glenvil and Doniphan.

In other actions the commission:

—Ordered officials of the Missouri Pacific Railroad to appear in Lincoln Dec. 20 to explain why the railroad has discontinued freight train service between Otoe and Avoca in eastern Nebraska.

Railroad officials told the commission in a letter that July rains washed out a bridge on the tracks between the two communities and the railroad intended to ask permission to abandon the line.

—Granted Hartman Telephone Exchanges, Inc., of Danbury authority to increase certain rates and charges.

Soviets Support Asia Subversion

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg accused the Soviet Union Friday of supporting subversion and terrorism as a means of overthrowing established governments in Southeast Asia and other parts of the world

He delivered a counterblast in the General Assembly's main political committee to bitter attacks upon U.S. policy in Viet Nam and Latin America made by communist countries.

"We must recognize as a simple fact of life a most regrettable fact—the Soviet doctrine of peaceful coexistence does not renounce and in fact permits subversion and terrorism," Goldberg said.

He rejected as distortions of truth charges by the Soviet Union and its ideological allies that the United States was guilty of aggression in Viet Nam.

He described the conflict there as "a prime example of the use of subversion, terrorism and now overt military intervention by one government, North Viet Nam, to overthrow another government, South Viet Nam."

He said the United States would continue to explore both within and outside the United Nations, all possible paths to a peaceful settlement that would be both durable and honorable.

MEAT OKd ON HOLIDAY EVES

Vatican City (AP)—Pope Paul VI has authorized Roman Catholic bishops around the world to permit their parishioners to eat meat on Christmas and New Year's Eves—both of which fall on Friday, traditional day for fasting.

The papal permission, however, left it up to the bishops to decide if the dispensation was "necessary or opportune" and to set any conditions they wanted.

Malaysia 'Ready, Willing' To Talk

Kaula Lumpur, Malaysia (AP)—Malaysia said Friday it is "ready and willing" to talk peace with Indonesia, but Indonesia must talk only with Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

A government statement, issued in Kuala Lumpur, was made in reply to a suggestion Thursday by Indonesian First Deputy Premier Subandrio that the Malaysian states turn their back on the central government and talk directly with Indonesian leaders.

Nobel Is 'Incentive'

Oslo, Norway (AP) — The United Nations Children's Fund — UNICEF — received the 1965 Nobel Peace Prize Friday and its executive director declared it was "a wonderful incentive to greater efforts in the name of peace."

"You have given us new strength," said the United States' Henry R. Labouisse, accepting for UNICEF a gold medal and a check for 282,000 Swedish crowns ($54,440).

Labouisse told the audience, including King Olav V and American comedian Danny Kaye, a UNICEF worker:

"You have reinforced our profound belief that, each time UNICEF contributes, however modestly, to giving today's children a chance to grow into useful and happier citizens, it contributes to removing some of the seeds of world tension and future conflicts."

The 19-year-old fund aids an estimated 760 million children in 118 emerging countries.

The Oslo ceremony was one of three honoring the 1965 Nobel winners.

Four of the Nobel Prizes were awarded in a glittering companion ceremony in Stockholm where Swedish King Gustav VI Adolf handed them out before an audience of 2,000 invited guests.

The other awards, each worth $54.440, were presented at Stockholm to:

—Profs. Julian Schwinger of Harvard University and Richard Feynmans of the California Institute of Technology, sharing the physics prize with Prof. Sinitiro Tomonaga of Japan.

—Profs. Francois Jacob, Andre Lwoff and Jaques Monod of France, medicine.

—Prof. Robert Burns Woodward of Harvard, chemistry.

Observers Discuss Shelepin Future Since Soviet Shuffle

Moscow (AP)—Alexander N. Shelepin was the main topic of conversation in frosty Moscow Friday night among foreigners who watch the Kremlin from outside its red brick walls.

A diplomatic cocktail party turned into a smoky seminar on the future of the stocky Soviet leader. The interest arose from actions earlier this week by the Communist Party Central Committee, which runs the Soviet Union, and the Supreme Soviet (parliament), which carries out party decisions.

The Supreme Soviet voted Thursday to accept the resignation of Anastas I. Mikoyan, 70, from the Soviet presidency and to replace him with Nikolai V. Podgorny, 62.

Centered Attention

But attention centered on Shelepin, 47. On the recommendation of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, the Supreme Soviet relieved Shelepin as a deputy premier and head of what had been a powerful committee.

Kosygin said the party Central Committee "considered it necessary that Shelepin. as a secretary of the Central Committee . . . should concentrate on work in the Central Committee . . . "

The question was, what work?

Communist sources said Shelepin would take over Podgorny's work. Podgorny has been the No. 2 man in the party, just behind Leonid Brezhnev, handling organizational matters.

Confirmation

In the absence of firm confirmation for the information from communist sources, some foreigners thought Shelepin was sliding down rather than up. They cited a sketchy published report on the Central Committee meeting Monday that approved the shifts.

Brezhnev proposed at the meeting that the Committee for Party and State Control be changed into a Committee for People's Control. The old committee had given Shelepin some influence in the way government units worked all over the country.

The committee's power, plus Shelepin's background as a former chief of secret police, made him a strong young man in an aging leadership.

In watering down the committee's power. Brezhnev said his reference to its activities "does not. of course, mean that there are no shortcomings in its work."

BRITAIN TO MEET RHODESIA ONLY ON SURRENDER TERMS

London (UPI)—Britain will not negotiate with rebellious Rhodesia except on terms for its surrender. Prime Minister Harold Wilson told Parliament Friday.

Wilson told the House of Commons the government of Premier Ian Smith had the power to end the crisis it triggered when it declared unilateral independence to perpetuate white minority rule.

He said when Smith indicated to Gov. Sir Humphrey Gibbs his acceptance of the need to return to constitutional methods. Britain would welcome discussions on the terms.

"What we must make clear is that the government is not prepared, directly or through the governor, to enter negotiations with Mr. Smith on any basis which involves dealing with an illegal regime or on conditions other than procedural conditions for a return to constitutional paths.

"We cannot negotiate with these men."

The British view is that Smith acted illegally in declaring independence and that Gibbs represents the only legal government in the African colony.

Wilson said. however. Britain would not demand unconditional surrender from Rhodesia.

Soviets Support Asia Subversion

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg accused the Soviet Union Friday of supporting subversion and terrorism as a means of overthrowing established governments in Southeast Asia and other parts of the world

He delivered a counterblast in the General Assembly's main political committee to bitter attacks upon U.S. policy in Viet Nam and Latin America made by communist countries.

"We must recognize as a simple fact of life a most regrettable fact—the Soviet doctrine of peaceful coexistence does not renounce and in fact permits subversion and terrorism," Goldberg said.

He rejected as distortions of truth charges by the Soviet Union and its ideological allies that the United States was guilty of aggression in Viet Nam.

He described the conflict there as "a prime example of the use of subversion, terrorism and now overt military intervention by one government, North Viet Nam, to overthrow another government, South Viet Nam."

He said the United States would continue to explore both within and outside the United Nations, all possible paths to a peaceful settlement that would be both durable and honorable.

MEAT OKd ON HOLIDAY EVES

Vatican City (AP)—Pope Paul VI has authorized Roman Catholic bishops around the world to permit their parishioners to eat meat on Christmas and New Year's Eves—both of which fall on Friday, traditional day for fasting.

The papal permission, however, left it up to the bishops to decide if the dispensation was "necessary or opportune" and to set any conditions they wanted.

Malaysia 'Ready, Willing' To Talk

Kaula Lumpur, Malaysia (AP)—Malaysia said Friday it is "ready and willing" to talk peace with Indonesia, but Indonesia must talk only with Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

A government statement, issued in Kuala Lumpur, was made in reply to a suggestion Thursday by Indonesian First Deputy Premier Subandrio that the Malaysian states turn their back on the central government and talk directly with Indonesian leaders.

Nobel Is 'Incentive'

Oslo, Norway (AP) — The United Nations Children's Fund — UNICEF — received the 1965 Nobel Peace Prize Friday and its executive director declared it was "a wonderful incentive to greater efforts in the name of peace."

"You have given us new strength," said the United States' Henry R. Labouisse, accepting for UNICEF a gold medal and a check for 282,000 Swedish crowns ($54,440).

Labouisse told the audience, including King Olav V and American comedian Danny Kaye, a UNICEF worker:

"You have reinforced our profound belief that, each time UNICEF contributes, however modestly, to giving today's children a chance to grow into useful and happier citizens, it contributes to removing some of the seeds of world tension and future conflicts."

The 19-year-old fund aids an estimated 760 million children in 118 emerging countries.

The Oslo ceremony was one of three honoring the 1965 Nobel winners.

Four of the Nobel Prizes were awarded in a glittering companion ceremony in Stockholm where Swedish King Gustav VI Adolf handed them out before an audience of 2,000 invited guests.

The other awards, each worth $54,440, were presented at Stockholm to:

—Profs. Julian Schwinger of Harvard University and Richard Feynmans of the California Institute of Technology, sharing the physics prize with Prof. Sinitiro Tomonaga of Japan.

—Profs. Francois Jacob, Andre Lwoff and Jaques Monod of France, medicine.

—Prof. Robert Burns Woodward of Harvard, chemistry.

Six Lincolnites Gain KCCH Rank

Six Lincoln men were among 24 Nebraska Scottish Rite Masons invested with the rank of Knights Commander of the Court of Honor (KCCH) in ceremonies Friday at the Scottish Rite Temple.

The new KCCH from Lincoln are Chauncey E. Barney, R. E. Campbell, Carl M. Davidson, William C. Hastings, Oscar M Meyer and John E. Trabert.

Joe W. Seacrest, sovereign grant inspector general of the Scottish Rite in Nebraska presided at the investiture ceremony, which was followed by a banquet

The 33rd Degree will be conferred on Lincoln masons Bartlett E. Boyles, Raymond J. Cederdahl and Clarence A. Davis during ceremonies in Omaha at 8:30 p.m. Saturday

The 33rd Degree Masons and the new KCCH were elected at the biennial session of the supreme council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Southern Jurisdiction, in Washington, DC., in October.

Other Nebraskans elected 33rd Degree Masons are Charles F. Adams, Aurora; Marvin M. Fink, Hastings, and Howard M. Lundgren, Samuel W. Reynolds, Phillip Ringle and Jake Wine, all of Omaha.

Out-state men elected to KCCH are Harry C. Knight, Hemingford, Arthur H. Miller, Harold R. Williams and Edward H. Lockwood, all of Hastings; Lloyd J. Peterson and Richard B. Rowbotham, both of Alliance.

New KCCH from Omaha are Roy C. Bush, Denison M. Edgerly, Thomas J. Foy, Jack E. Gates, Virgil J. Haggart Jr., Hugh H. Hickox, Alma F. Jacobson, John G. Loucks, Max A. Miller, Henry D. Nelly II, Robert L. Page and William C. Spire

Former Norden President Eddell C. Jones, 71, Is Dead

Dr. Eddell C. Jones, 71, of Lincoln, retired president and chairman of the board of Norden Laboratories, died Friday.

Dr. Jones practiced veterinary medicine in western Nebraska and served as president of the Platte Valley Serum Co. at Grand Island until its merger with Nordon Laboratories in 1934.

After 20 years as vice president and sales manager of Norden, he became president. Dr. Jones retired from that office in 1961, and as board chairman in 1964.

He was also a past president of the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association and Associated Veterinary Laboratories; member of the U.S. Livestock Sanitary Association; American Veterinary Medical Association Foundation; and a trustee of the Endowment and Development Foundation at Kansas State University.

A 1916 graduate of Kansas State, Dr. Jones received that university's distinguished service award for his contributions in veterinary medicine in 1958.

Survivors include his wife, Marguerite; daughter, Mrs. Jack Miller of Gresham, Ore.; brother, Cecil of Mission, Tex. sisters, Mrs. Arthur Angell and Mrs. Winona Blackburn, both of Cambridge, Md.

Observers Discuss Shelepin Future Since Soviet Shuffle

Moscow (AP)—Alexander N. Shelepin was the main topic of conversation in frosty Moscow Friday night among foreigners who watch the Kremlin from outside its red brick walls.

A diplomatic cocktail party turned into a smoky seminar on the future of the stocky Soviet leader. The interest arose from actions earlier this week by the Communist Party Central Committee, which runs the Soviet Union, and the Supreme Soviet (parliament), which carries out party decisions.

The Supreme Soviet voted Thursday to accept the resignation of Anastas I. Mikoyan, 70, from the Soviet presidency and to replace him with Nikolai V. Podgorny, 62.

Centered Attention

But attention centered on Shelepin, 47. On the recommendation of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, the Supreme Soviet relieved Shelepin as a deputy premier and head of what had been a powerful committee.

Kosygin said the party Central Committee "considered it necessary that Shelepin, as a secretary of the Central Committee . . . should concentrate on work in the Central Committee . . ."

The question was, what work?

Communist sources said Shelepin would take over Podgorny's work. Podgorny has been the No. 2 man in the party, just behind Leonid Brezhnev, handling organizational matters.

Confirmation

In the absence of firm confirmation for the information from communist sources, some foreigners thought Shelepin was sliding down rather than up. They cited a sketchy published report on the Central Committee meeting Monday that approved the shifts.

Brezhnev proposed at the meeting that the Committee for Party and State Control be changed into a Committee for People's Control. The old committee had given Shelepin some influence in the way government units worked all over the country.

The committee's power, plus Shelepin's background as a former chief of secret police, made him a strong young man in an aging leadership.

In watering down the committee's power, Brezhnev said his reference to its activities "does not, of course, mean that there are no shortcomings in its work."

BRITAIN TO MEET RHODESIA ONLY ON SURRENDER TERMS

London (UPI)—Britain will not negotiate with rebellious Rhodesia except on terms for its surrender, Prime Minister Harold Wilson told Parliament Friday.

Wilson told the House of Commons the government of Premier Ian Smith had the power to end the crisis it triggered when it declared unilateral independence to perpetuate white minority rule.

He said when Smith indicated to Gov. Sir Humphrey Gibbs his acceptance of the need to return to constitutional methods, Britain would welcome discussions on the terms.

"What we must make clear is that the government is not prepared, directly or through the governor, to enter negotiations with Mr. Smith on any basis which involves dealing with an illegal regime or on conditions other than procedural conditions for a return to constitutional paths.

"We cannot negotiate with these men."

The British view is that Smith acted illegally in declaring independence and that Gibbs represents the only legal government in the African colony.

Wilson said, however, Britain would not demand unconditional surrender from Rhodesia.

Reds Launch Cosmos 99

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union fired Cosmos 99 into orbit Tass announced. The Cosmos series is one the Russians say is intended for space research in a program begun March 16, 1962. The Cosmos Sputniks are unmanned.

All Wesleyan Students Get 5 Free Books

Christmas came a little early Friday for Nebraska Wesleyan University students.

Each of the more than 1,300 students was given five books, the gift of W. Clement Stone, president of the Combined Insurance Co. of America.

In advance of a Friday convocation address, Stone sent to the campus 1,390 copies of each of the following books: "Think and Grow Rich" by Hill; "Success Through A Positive Mental Attitude" by Hill and Stone; "The Success System That Never Fails" by Stone; "I Dare You" by W. H. Danforth, and "You and Psychiatry" by Menninger and Leaf.

That makes a total of 6,950 books.

Additional books provided for distribution to business men raised the number of contributed volumes to 7,150, along with 2,880 posters and magazines.

Stone, a self-made millionaire, has headquarters in Chicago. He is president of four companies in the combined group and devotes much of his time to writing, lecturing and civic and philanthropic activites. He is known as a prolific distributor of books.

All Wesleyan Students Get 5 Free Books

Christmas came a little early Friday for Nebraska Wesleyan University students.

Each of the more than 1,300 students was given five books, the gift of W. Clement Stone, president of the Combined Insurance Co. of America.

In advance of a Friday convocation address, Stone sent to the campus 1,390 copies of each of the following books: "Think and Grow Rich" by Hill; "Success Through A Positive Mental Attitude" by Hill and Stone; "The Success System That Never Fails" by Stone; "I Dare You" by W. H. Danforth, and "You and Psychiatry" by Menninger and Leaf.

That makes a total of 6,950 books.

Additional books provided for distribution to business men raised the number of contributed volumes to 7,150, along with 2,880 posters and magazines.

Stone, a self-made millionaire, has headquarters in Chicago. He is president of four companies in the combined group and devotes much of his time to writing, lecturing and civic and philanthropic activites. He is known as a prolific distributor of books.

Area Job Corps Trainee Placement Chief Confers With State Authorities

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

A regional director of the Office of Economic Opportunity said Friday in Lincoln that job placement of Corps trainees will be a key responsibility of his office.

Don Thomason, Kansas City regional office director for an 11-state area including Nebraska, also conferred with Gov. Frank Morrison and State Technical Assistance Director Ron Jensen.

The Washington office will retain jurisdiction over the establishment and operation of Job Corps centers, he said, but the regional office will have a primary responsibility of placing the trainees in jobs."

Thomason said, "We are going to work directly with industry, and will not duplicate the work of any other federal agency."

A Job Corps center has been proposed for the Lincoln Air Force Base under the sponsorship of the University of Nebraska and Northern Natural Gas Co.

Thomason, former Missouri commissioner of agriculture before stepping into the federal post in mid-September, said his agriculture and rural background is helpful in his new job.

"Cities and urban population centers have social welfare agencies with which we can work in combating poverty," he said. In contrast, rural areas of poverty are more scattered and difficult to mobilize."

He estimated Nebraska was "close to the middle" among the 11 states in its anti-poverty activity.

He said Missouri which is probably the most active, has had to switch to an individual county to a multiple-county approach.

"The multiple-county or area approach makes for better planning, administrative efficiency and economy and a more varied program," he said.

Thomason said the regional office has been delegated primary responsibility of the adminstration of the Head Start and Community Action programs.

Nebraska Betters U.S. Traffic Mark

October of this year was the worst October in the nation's history for traffic deaths, but Nebraska reversed the trend.

Tom Ryan, state safety coordinator, said Friday the National Safety Council has reported the national traffic death toll in October was 5% above the same month last year, and for the first 10 months of this year, traffic deaths are 2% greater than last year, which was the worst year on record.

By contrast, Ryan said, Nebraska reduced its death toll in October by 25%, and in November, by 30%. For the first 11 months of the year, Nebraska's toll has been 13% under last year.

The National Safety Council report noted that Nebraska has the fourth highest percentage rate of traffic death reduction among the 50 states, and has the seventh smallest per-mile death rate, bettered only by six new England states.

State's Banking Rules Amended

State Banking Director Henry Ley announced Friday that state banking regulations have been amended on interest rates to conform with recent federal changes.

Maximum permissible interest rates are 5½% on time deposits and 4% on savings deposits.

CPPD Optimistic N-Unit At Hallam Can Be Reopened

Consumers Public Power District said Friday it is still optimistic that eventually the nuclear-power facilities at its Hallam plant will become operational once again.

Robert Buntain, the Hallam plant's operations supervisor, said an application is on file with the Atomic Energy Commission to repair the nuclear moderator element.

The AEC terminated its contract with Consumers earlier this year after the moderator developed a leak.

Buntain commented at a meeting of the Professional Engineers of Nebraska.

Miss Bigelow President-Elect Of School Chiefs

Gosper County School Superintendent Miss Doris E. Bigelow was elected president-elect of the Nebraska Assn. of County Superintendents at the group's three-day meeting which ended Friday.

Floyd E Hutcheson of Dodge County was elected president for the coming year. Other officers are Mrs. Gladys Greeley of Hayes County, secretary; Alexis Johnson of Buffalo County, treasurer, and Tom Chandler of Harlan County, sergeant at arms.

The group passed a resolution that rules and regulations be set up for Class I schools rather than merely guidelines.

Comprehensive Morrill County School Plan Okayed

The State School District Reorganization Committee Friday approved a comprehensive Morrill County plan which would create two new unified school districts in the county.

The state committee recommended that county officials place the reorganization plan on the ballot.

One district, comprised of the Bayard district and eight rural districts, would have an assessed valuation of about $9 million and a total enrollment approaching 700 pupils for kindergarten through high school.

The other district, comprised of the Bridgeport district and 20 rural districts, would have an assessed valuation of about $2 million and an enrollment of more than 950.

The committee approved a Lancaster County petition plan under which the Walton school district would be attached to the Waverly district.

A Box Butte County petition plan, under which a portion of district 29 would be attached to District 39, was given qualified approval.

The committee rejected a reorganization plan for Box Butte and Dawes counties which would have created a new rural high school district by consolidating Hemmingford and 13 other districts.

"All the rivers run into the sea; yet the sea is not full; unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again..." sang the poet about the monotony of life. How much alike are our days, weeks and months! # JUST sparkle and glitter worries in suburban areas

Lincoln residents have found the first two weeks in December the most hectic 14 days of the year, and that no matter how well Christmas duties are pre-planned, all plans go astray. But perhaps that's what makes Christmas the fun it is—no worries except those that sparkle and glitter.

Speaking of sparkle and glitter—Lincoln residents have been climbing on their rooftops all of this week. Dad's muscles are a little sore, but the house is clothed in bright lights and holiday greetings.

For suburban residents this week it has been shopping, baking, and visiting, and perhaps a housewarming.

COTNER TERRACE

Newcomers in the Cotner Terrace area are Mr. and Mrs. James Farkas. The Farkas' former address was 7260 So. Wedgewood, and they are now making their new home at 7630 Starr St. The two younger members of the household are Jimmy and Jeff. Jeff attends the University of Nebraska.

Also new in suburbia are Mr. and Mrs. Emil Ceplecha. Formerly of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Ceplecha and their children, Jim, 13; Judy, 9; Steven, 4, and LeRoy, 3, now call 6313 Fremont their Lincoln home. The newcomers arrived in the city last Monday.

EASTBOROUGH

Settling down into a new home just in time for the holidays are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Timmons and their son and daughter, Alec and Cheryl Ann. Graduates of the University of Nebraska, Mr. and Mrs. Timmons made the move from 5001 Everett to 308 Prestwick Road last week. Mr. Timmons is now associated with the University of Nebraska Extension Service.

Betrothal

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. John McArthur of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter. Linda Louise, to William McCarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McCarty of 29 Palms, Calif.

The wedding is planned for Thursday, Jan. 27, and the ceremony will be solemnized in Arlington, Calif.

Miss McArthur attended Union College in Lincoln, Pacific Union College in Angwin, Calif., and will be graduated in June from La Sierra College in La Sierra, Calif. She is majoring in music education and in elementary education. Her fiance will receive his degree in Theology from La Sierra College in June. He now is serving as president of Associated Students at La Sierra.

TOWN TALK

The question this morning is where to begin—There is so much to talk about, and so many names to mention that a starting point is a bit difficult to determine.

But we think we'll begin with Lt. Robert A. Hillyer. Lt. Hillyer is just back from the Dominican Republic, and arrived in Lincoln last Monday to spend a brief leave with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hillyer. Actually Lt. Hillyer leaves again on Dec. 20—and this time for far away places.

* * *

That we learned that Mrs. Romane Moeller (Pat Herminghaus) of Colorado Springs, Colo., arrives today to spend the weekend in Lincoln. Mrs. Moeller, who will be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Herminghaus, is coming to attend the memorial services for her uncle, the late Ernst Herminghaus, which will be held on Monday afternoon.

* * *

A popular bride-elect, Miss Barbara Tanner, was complimented on Friday when Mrs. Lee Stover was a luncheon hostess at her home. Places were arranged for 16, and Miss Tanner, whose marriage to John Musselman will take place on Dec. 28, was presented with a lingerie shower.

* * *

Since we already have mentioned activity in the Stover family we'll continue with the news that Dr. and Mrs. Stover's daughters will be arriving home from school next week. Miss Kathy Stover, who is a freshman at Whittier Junior College, Whittier, Calif., will be home on Wednesday, Dec. 15. And from Westover School, Middlebury, Conn., on Friday, Dec. 17, will come Miss Betsy Stover.

* * *

And speaking of members of the school crowd—and we were—we'll add the name of Miss Lynn Purvis to the just-before-Christmas arrivals list. Miss Purvis, a freshman at William Wood College, comes home on Dec. 21 and will, as almost everyone could guess, spend the holidays with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Purvis.

Mrs. Boldebuck and Mrs Benzing are leader group training chairmen, and others, not pictured, are Mrs. William Wylder, Davey; Mrs Mancel McGill, Waverly, Mrs. Alvin Boltz, Bennet; and Mrs. Stanley Winch, Roca.

The program was highlighted by displays of holiday decorations and table centerpieces.

The bidding:

Opening lead — king of clubs.

This hand was played in the European championships in Stockholm in 1956. It occurred in the match between England and France. South was the English star, Harold Franklin, who became declarer at three hearts.

West cashed the A-K of clubs and shifted to a low diamond. East won with the ace and returned a diamond, South taking the king.

Franklin then led a low spade to the queen. East took the king and played still another diamond.

South won and didn't bother to take a heart finesse. Franklin led the ace, caught the king, and made three scintillating hearts.

He reasoned that if East had had the king of hearts in addition to the king of spades and ace of diamonds, East would have bid two notrump instead of three clubs.

Since it followed from this that West had the king, no good could come of a finesse and the only hope therefore was that West's king was unguarded.

Franklin certainly couldn't have been more right in his analysis, as the result showed. But East pinned the blame on his partner for allowing South to make the hand.

When the spade was led by declarer, West had played the six. East contended that if West had played the nine (to start a high-low showing a doubleton) he would have permitted the queen to win the trick.

Declarer would then have assumed that West had the king, and might therefore have concluded from this that East had the king of hearts. South would consequently have taken a finesse, lost to the king, and gone down one when he later lost a spade trick.

All of which is no doubt somewhat metaphysical — though we do think that East's argument was quite sound. The hand simply goes to show that when an important championship is at stake, the players just can't sit there whistling Dixie.

ABBY

system not a cure-all

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After 12 years of marriage, Fenwick told me he wanted a divorce. (I knew he'd been running around on me, but then, nobody is perfect.) He said he was "in love" with a woman he'd met at work. (She is 44 and divorced. Fenwick is 36!) I told him I wanted to meet her, and if I thought she was good enough for him, I'd sign the papers. Well, I met her, and she was worse than I had expected. I just calmly told Fenwick that I wouldn't sign any papers to free him so he could marry THAT. I didn't stop him from seeing her. I just let the affair burn itself out. In six months it was dead as a dodo. Now Fenwick is thanking me for being so wise and sensible. Maybe other women with the same problem can use my formula.

NOT SO DUMB

DEAR NOT: What will cure some patients will kill others. All generalizations are worthless, including this one.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column. I am 24, and am engaged to be married to a man I've known about a year. We know each other quite well and have told each other about our pasts and things like that. But there is one thing he doesn't know about me. Six years ago, I had my nose "bobbed." Large noses run in my family, and I had an enormously large nose. Now it's considerably reduced and is quite pretty, and only those who knew me B.O. (before operation) are aware that I've had one. Should I tell my fiance about my nose job? I don't think it would be fair to marry him and bear children who might inherit my real nose. Awaiting your reply, I am,

"NOSE JOB"

DEAR NOSE JOB: If he's the right kind of man, it's highly unlikely that you'll lose him by a nose.

The wedding of Miss Judith Waples, daughter of Mrs. Ivan L. Waples, and David L. McCalla, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. M McCalla, took place Friday evening, Dec. 10, at Bethany Christian Church. The service was solemnized by the Rev. Carl A. Burkhardt.

Wearing daytime-length frocks of light blue velvet were Mrs. Paul Thomas, the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Betty Brooks and Miss Joyce King.

Robert McCalla of Mission, Kan., served his brother as best man, and the ushers were David Shrader, Neligh; David Evans, George Roznarin and Neil Zook.

The bride appeared in a gown of traditional white satin, fashioned with a long-sleeved basque and bell skirt complemented by a detachable train of the satin. A crown of pearls held her illusion veil, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. McCalla will make their home in Lincoln.

Lotos Club

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♥ | 2 ♣ | 2 ♥ | 3 ♣ |
| Pass | Pass | 3 ♥ | |

Opening lead — king of clubs.

This hand was played in the European championships in Stockholm in 1956. It occurred in the match between England and France. South was the English star, Harold Franklin, who became declarer at three hearts.

West cashed the A-K of clubs and shifted to a low diamond. East won with the ace and returned a diamond, South taking the king.

Franklin then led a low spade to the queen. East took the king and played still another diamond.

South won and didn't bother to take a heart finesse. Franklin led the ace, caught the king, and made three scintillating hearts.

He reasoned that if East had had the king of hearts in addition to the king of spades and ace of diamonds, East would have bid two notrump instead of three clubs.

Since it followed from this that West had the king, no good could come of a finesse and the only hope therefore was that West's king was unguarded.

Franklin certainly couldn't have been more right in his analysis, as the result showed. But East pinned the blame on his partner for allowing South to make the hand.

When the spade was led by declarer, West had played the six. East contended that if West had played the nine (to start a high-low showing a doubleton) he would have permitted the queen to win the trick.

Declarer would then have assumed that West had the king, and might therefore have concluded from this that East had the king of hearts. South would consequently have taken a finesse, lost to the king, and gone down one when he later lost a spade trick.

All of which is no doubt somewhat metaphysical — though we do think that East's argument was quite sound. The hand simply goes to show that when an important championship is at stake, the players just can't sit there whistling Dixie.

ABBY

system not a cure-all

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After 12 years of marriage, Fenwick told me he wanted a divorce. (I knew he'd been running around on me, but then, nobody is perfect.) He said he was "in love" with a woman he'd met at work. (She is 44 and divorced. Fenwick is 36!) I told him I wanted to meet her, and if I thought she was good enough for him, I'd sign the papers. Well, I met her, and she was worse than I had expected. I just calmly told Fenwick that I wouldn't sign any papers to free him so he could marry THAT. I didn't stop him from seeing her. I just let the affair burn itself out. In six months it was dead as a dodo. Now Fenwick is thanking me for being so wise and sensible. Maybe other women with the same problem can use my formula.

NOT SO DUMB

DEAR NOT: What will cure some patients will kill others. All generalizations are worthless, including this one.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column. I am 24, and am engaged to be married to a man I've known about a year. We know each other quite well and have told each other about our pasts and things like that. But there is one thing he doesn't know about me. Six years ago, I had my nose "bobbed." Large noses run in my family, and I had an enormously large nose. Now it's considerably reduced and is quite pretty, and only those who knew me B.O. (before operation) are aware that I've had one. Should I tell my fiance about my nose job? I don't think it would be fair to marry him and bear children who might inherit my real nose. Awaiting your reply, I am,

"NOSE JOB"

DEAR NOSE JOB: If he's the right kind of man, it's highly unlikely that you'll lose him by a nose.

'Fat' Pat Moves Up A Class

By BARRY BURKHART
Star Sports Writer

If anyone ever doubted the quality of wrestlers drawn by the Midwest AAU Tournament being held at Pershing Auditorium, they should consider the likes of Pat Kelly of Waukegan, Ill.

Pat placed third last year in the 171-pound class in the National AAU freestyle at San Francisco. And besides the AAU honor, Kelly won the Inter-Service (armed forces) championship at Mare Island, Calif., shortly thereafter.

In the present meet, Pat is wrestling in the 191-pound division where he is heavily favored. But he admits, "I'm a little fat now . . . but I'll be down to 171 for the national meet (also to be held at Pershing)."

Pat, who is now 25, started wrestling at Waukegan High School under coach Ott Bay. Bay has three sons. Two of them have been national champions, and the third, Steve, is wrestling for the Air Force at Pershing. "He's doing real well," says Kelly.

Results, Page 14

After high school, Kelly and some of his classmates organized the Waukegan Wrestling Club but later moved it to Chicago and changed its name — naturally — to the Chicago Wrestling Club.

The team placed fourth last year in the nationals and third the year before.

Kelly and the rest of the team members practice at local high schools because two of the team members are coaches in the Chicago-Waukegan area.

Pat admits that he wasn't outstanding in high school—"I placed third or fourth in the state." — but developed rapidly after graduation.

Pat enrolled at and attended the University of Illinois for two years, during which time he placed second in the Big Ten in the 167-pound division.

After college, he went to the service, wrestling for the New York Athletic Club and now works in the engineering department of North Shore Gas Co. in Waukegan. The work is on a shift basis, so he can arrange to attend several meets during the year.

Kelly has nothing but praise for the wrestling setup in Lincoln. "I've never wrestled at a place with nicer facilities," he says. "Besides the Midwest is kind of a central point and it's easier to get here."

He likes the idea of having hotels and eating places close at hand; however, he is disappointed in the lack of fans turning out to see the matches.

Pat looks for the Midwest to raise its wrestling status. "I think the best wrestlers are in the Midwest," he says. "The big powers now are the New York Athletic Club in the East and the (San Franciscl) Athletic Club on the West Coast." But he thinks the Midwest is bound to come up — and the Chicago Wrestling Club is proving his point.

Pius' Upset Bid Foiled

Just when Pius X was showing signs of a basketball upset, Bellevue unloaded a 29-point third quarter Friday night in the Thunderbolts' gym to settle the question and give it an 80-60 victory.

The Chieftains took a slim 38-37 lead to the halftime dressing room but came back with a couple of hot shooting hands to spoil the Thunderbolts' first game of the season.

Dick Held, hitting from the outside for four buckets in the period, hit two of them to give Bellevue a 47-40 advantage and then Lee Torrens, who had 29 for the evening, began working inside for four fielders and a couple of free throws to help the Chieftains pull away.

With a 67-53 three-period advantage pretty much tucking things away, Bellevue couldn't score for 4 36 of the final period, but Pius couldn't make up any slack.

Bellevue took off like it was going for victory No. 2 easily at the beginning but a rare five-point Pius parlay made it 15-all. John McEniry hit a jumper outside while Dana Stephenson was getting pushed under the basket.

Stephenson hit the first end of the one-and-one free throw situation and Pius got his miss on the second try. McEniry pumped it in for the tie with 1:21 left in the first quarter.

Bellevue held the lead through most of the second quarter but couldn't shake the Bolts' pressure

After slipping to three and five-point deficits, Pius rallied back to within one four times during the quarter but took the lead only on Kim Wheeler's fielder to make it 29-28. Five straight Chieftain points wiped that away.

Stephenson led the Pius scoring with 12 points, followed by Mike Bohaty and John McLaughlin's 11.

Pius travels to Syracuse tonight, searching win No. 1.

Lawrence, aKn. (AP) — Seventh-ranked Kansas, led by Walt Wesley and Ron Franz, whipped tough Maryland 71-62, and St. John's of New York cracked Kansas State's zone defense for a 72-65 victory in the ninth annual Sunflower Basketball Doubleheader Friday night.

Unbeaten St. John's paced by gifted Lloyd Dove and captain Bob McIntyre, took charge with a 20-3 spurt early in the last half.

A crowd of 14,800 saw the two games.

The 6-foot-11 Wesley scored 26 points for unbeaten Kansas, 4-0, while Franz scored 11 points and held Maryland's leading scorer, Gary Ward, to just five points.

Wesleyan's Hard-Running Offense Wins Easily

. . . SIOUX FALLS VANQUISHED, 85-72, IN VISITING ROLE

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

Sioux Falls, S.D., College's basketball players must still mave had too much fog in their eyes from the hazy trip to Lincoln during the first half of their contest with Nebraska Wesleyan, as the Plainsmen opened a wide halftime gap, 49-32, and went on to defeat the Braves, 85-72, Friday night at Taylor Gym.

The Plainsmen used a hard-running offense, which at one time left Sioux Falls 23 points behind. But the Braves cleared their eyes enough to rally to a 15-point deficit, 45-30, with one minute left in the first half of play.

Wesleyan coach Irv Peterson's club, although showing signs of fatigue in the latter stages of the contest, seems to have found the scoring touch after a slow start in last week's Midwest Holiday Tournament.

Friday night the Plainsmen, led by Dwight Tietjen's 20 points, were hitting from all angles. Tietjen popped in long set shots from the corner, while scrappy little guard Skip Peterson and the rest of the NWU crew rippled the nets with every kind of shot imaginable.

Peterson tallied 15 points in the game, while doing yeoman's work on defense, forcing Sioux Falls mistakes with his aggressiveness.

Bill Nasi and Dick Beckler, a newcomer to the Plainsman camp, also scored in double figures for the winners. Nasi, a 6-4 jumping jack whose lack of stamina is his major nemesis, had trouble finding the range until facing Midland in the last Plainsman outing, but scored 14 points Friday night. Beckler, a 6-0 sophomore from Seward who was making his second appearance in Wesleyan togs, added 13 to the cause.

During the second half Sioux Falls, apparently recovered from its first half showing, started its long, slow climb back into contention, narrowing the count to eight points, 73-65, with a little over six minutes remaining in the game.

The Plainsmen wouldn't let the surging Braves come any closer, however, four straight free throws by Peterson lifting the margin to the final 85-72.

Ron Krayl, a 6-0 sophomore from Point Pleasant, N.J., led the Sioux Falls scoring, totaling 17 points for the evening. Five other Braves had 10 or more points in a well-balanced attack.

—TUTORS LEAD AT HALF—

Omaha Cathedral Stops Uni High

By KENT SAVERY
Star Sports Writer

The Cardinals of Omaha Cathedral, after trailing 24-21 at halftime, quickly moved into the lead in the third quarter and went on to defeat Lincoln University High, 51-37, Friday night at the NU Coliseum.

Cathedral's third-quarter splurge was sparked by guards Jim McGinn and Chuck Wallerstedt as each collected three field goals in the period. McGinn, the Cardinal captain, took high point honors for his team with 14 points, edging out Wallerstedt who totaled 12.

Uni High's Dennis Beckman, a senior guard, took game honors with 15 points, despite having to play the entire second half with four personal fouls.

Cathedral gained an early 6-0 lead, connecting on three jump shots in the opening two minutes of the contest. Again McGinn and Wallerstedt were the culprits.

The Tutors first score came with 5:43 remaining in the first quarter when Jerry Schultz hit a free throw. Dennis Beckmann then tallied twice to bring the Tutors within one point, 6-5.

The Cardinals led by from one to three points until Alex Fischer put Uni ahead for the first time, 12-11, with a jump shot two minutes before intermission. Cathedral countered but Beckmann hit a set shot to put the Tutors ahead, 14-13, before the first quarter ended.

McGinn got the lead back for the Cardinals, 15-14, with a jump shot twenty seconds into the second quarter. They led by from one to four points until Uni's captain, 6-4½ Jim McMasters, hit a short jumper with 1:16 remaining in the half to give Uni a 22-21 advantage. A layup by Steve Speidel completed the first half scoring and gave Uni a 24-21 lead.

But the second half was a different story. Uni lost its lead for good when Wallerstedt connected with a set shot with 5:34 left in the third period, making it 27-26. Cathedral then boosted its lead to 33-26 as the Tutors were blanked for 3½ minutes.

The sluggish Tutor offense could muster up only 13 points in the second half while Cathedral tallied 30, gradually stretching its lead. The only Tutor to get more than two points the final half was Beckmann with seven. He left the game in the final minute with five personal fouls.

Big Eight Increases Travel Squads To 45 For Football

. . . ASKS BAN ON CLOSED CIRCUIT TV

Kansas City (AP)—The Big Eight Conference Friday increased the football traveling squad limit from 40 to 45 players, asked the national rules committee to prohibit closed circuit television for football coaches and relaxed rules to permit freshmen to compete in outside meets.

The conference reaffirmed rules against football coaches going onto the field during games; adopted a new 7-year pairings plan for the holiday basketball tournament and set new signing dates for letter of intent programs in various sports.

The Big Eight's rules against outside competition have been the most restrictive of any major conference. The first revision permits athletes in all sports to compete in open meets up to three weeks prior to the championship meet in each sport. The second change permits freshmen in all sports to compete unattached in NCAA-approved meets.

The conference has permitted closed-circuit television in league games only if permission of the opposing coach was obtained. The coaches want the NCAA football rules committee to pass national legislation prohibiting its use. Failing this, they will review their policy before next season.

The new basketball tournament pairings plan provides that each team will face a different team every year in the first round for seven years. In recent years, the pairings for the annual tourney at Kansas City has been based on a formula using the conference finish the previous year.

The faculty men established Feb 8, 1966, as the earliest date for signing high school athletes to football letters of intent. They set March 30 as the signing date for basketball, swimming, gymnastics and wrestling.

The conference also voted to ask the NCAA Extra Events Committee to make some arrangements for withholding of announcement of bowl game participants until the regular season ends.

Relaxed the rules to permit the Big Eight baseball champion to play four games between the end of the regular season and the NCAA College World Series.

Set the 1967 conference swimming meet for Missouri, 1968 for Kansas and 1969 for Oklahoma State.

Set the 1967 wrestling meet for Colorado; 1968 for Kansas.

Set the 1967 gymnastics meet for Nebraska; 1968 for Oklahoma

NCAA Clears Bill Jennings Of Charges

Oklahoma City (AP)—Bill Jennings, athletic director at Washburn University, Topeka, Kan., was cleared Thursday of charges that he touched off a 1959 NCAA investigation of the University of Oklahoma.

Jennings was football coach at Nebraska at the time the probe got underway.

The former Sooner grid star has stated repeatedly that he had nothing to do with the investigation. In a letter to the Daily Oklahoman, Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, supported Jennings.

Byers wrote in part:

"Bill Jennings did not submit any allegations to the NCAA concerning the athletic practices of the University of Oklahoma.

"He was not the source of the information which led to the NCAA's investigation of the University of Oklahoma's athletic operations."

—FEELS MIDWEST ON WAY IN MAT WORLD—

'Fat' Pat Moves Up A Class

By BARRY BURKHART
Star Sports Writer

If anyone ever doubted the quality of wrestlers drawn by the Midwest AAU Tournament being held at Pershing Auditorium, they should consider the likes of Pat Kelly of Waukegan, Ill.

Pat placed third last year in the 171-pound class in the National AAU freestyle at San Francisco. And besides the AAU honor, Kelly won the Inter-Service (armed forces) championship at Mare Island, Calif., shortly thereafter.

In the present meet, Pat is wrestling in the 191-pound division where he is heavily favored. But he admits, "I'm a little fat now . . . but I'll be down to 171 for the national meet (also to be held at Pershing)."

Pat, who is now 25, started wrestling at Waukegan High School under coach Ott Bay. Bay has three sons. Two of them have been national champions, and the third, Steve, is wrestling for the Air Force at Pershing. "He's doing real well," says Kelly.

Results,
Page 14

After high school, Kelly and some of his classmates organized the Waukegan Wrestling Club but later moved it to Chicago and changed its name — naturally — to the Chicago Wrestling Club.

The team placed fourth last year in the nationals and third the year before.

Kelly and the rest of the team members practice at local high schools because two of the team members are coaches in the Chicago-Waukegan area.

Pat admits that he wasn't outstanding in high school—"I placed third or fourth in the state." — but developed rapidly after graduation.

Pat enrolled at and attended the University of Illinois for two years, during which time he placed second in the Big Ten in the 167-pound division.

After college, he went to the service, wrestling for the New York Athletic Club and now works in the engineering department of North Shore Gas Co. in Waukegan. The work is on a shift basis, so he can arrange to attend several meets during the year.

Kelly has nothing but praise for the wrestling setup in Lincoln. "I've never wrestled at a place with nicer facilities," he says. "Besides the Midwest is kind of a central point and it's easier to get here."

He likes the idea of having hotels and eating places close at hand; however, he is disappointed in the lack of fans turning out to see the matches.

Pat looks for the Midwest to raise its wrestling status. "I think the best wrestlers are in the Midwest," he says. "The big powers now are the New York Athletic Club in the East and the (San Franciscl) Athletic Club on the West Coast." But he thinks the Midwest is bound to come up — and the Chicago Wrestling Club is proving his point.

Pius' Upset Bid Foiled

Just when Pius X was showing signs of a basketball upset, Bellevue unloaded a 29-point third quarter Friday night in the Thunderbolts' gym to settle the question and give it an 80-60 victory.

The Chieftains took a slim 38-37 lead to the halftime dressing room but came back with a couple of hot shooting hands to spoil the Thunderbolts' first game of the season.

Dick Held, hitting from the outside for four buckets in the period, hit two of them to give Bellevue a 47-40 advantage and then Lee Torrens, who had 29 for the evening, began working inside for four fielders and a couple of free throws to help the Chieftains pull away.

With a 67-53 three-period advantage pretty much tucking things away, Bellevue couldn't score for 4:36 of the final period, but Pius couldn't make up any slack.

Bellevue took off like it was going for victory No. 2 easily at the beginning but a rare five-point Pius parlay made it 15-all. John McEniry hit a jumper outside while Dana Stephenson was getting pushed under the basket.

Stephenson hit the first end of the one-and-one free throw situation and Pius got his miss on the second try. McEniry pumped it in for the tie with 1:21 left in the first quarter.

Bellevue held the lead through most of the second quarter but couldn't shake the Bolts' pressure.

After slipping to three and five-point deficits, Pius rallied back to within one four times during the quarter but took the lead only on Kim Wheeler's fielder to make it 29-28. Five straight Chieftain points wiped that away.

Stephenson led the Pius scoring with 12 points, followed by Mike Bohaty and John McLaughlin's 11.

Pius travels to Syracuse tonight, searching win No. 1.

Wesleyan's Hard-Running Offense Wins Easily

. . . SIOUX FALLS VANQUISHED, 85-72, IN VISITING ROLE

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

Sioux Falls, S.D., College's basketball players must still mave had too much fog in their eyes from the hazy trip to Lincoln during the first half of their contest with Nebraska Wesleyan, as the Plainsmen opened a wide halftime gap, 49-32, and went on to defeat the Braves, 85-72, Friday night at Taylor Gym.

The Plainsmen used a hard-running offense, which at one time left Sioux Falls 23 points behind. But the Braves cleared their eyes enough to rally to a 15-point deficit, 45-30, with one minute left in the first half of play.

Wesleyan coach Irv Peterson's club, although showing signs of fatigue in the latter stages of the contest, seems to have found the scoring touch after a slow start in last week's Midwest Holiday Tournament.

Friday night the Plainsmen, led by Dwight Tietjen's 20 points, were hitting from all angles. Tietjen popped in long set shots from the corner, while scrappy little guard Skip Peterson and the rest of the NWU crew rippled the nets with every kind of shot imaginable.

Peterson tallied 15 points in the game, while doing yeoman's work on defense, forcing Sioux Falls mistakes with his aggressiveness.

Bill Nasi and Dick Beckler, a newcomer to the Plainsman camp, also scored in double figures for the winners. Nasi, a 6-4 jumping jack whose lack of stamina is his major nemesis, had trouble finding the range until facing Midland in the last Plainsman outing, but scored 14 points Friday night. Beckler, a 6-0 sophomore from Seward who was making his second appearance in Wesleyan togs, added 13 to the cause.

During the second half Sioux Falls, apparently recovered from its first half showing, started its long, slow climb back into contention, narrowing the count to eight points, 73-65, with a little over six minutes remaining in the game.

The Plainsmen wouldn't let the surging Braves come any closer, however, four straight free throws by Peterson lifting the margin to the final 85-72.

Ron Krayl, a 6-0 sophomore from Point Pleasant, N.J., led the Sioux Falls scoring, totaling 17 points for the evening. Five other Braves had 10 or more points in a well-balanced attack.

—TUTORS LEAD AT HALF—

Omaha Cathedral Stops Uni High

By KENT SAVERY
Star Sports Writer

The Cardinals of Omaha Cathedral, after trailing 24-21 at halftime, quickly moved into the lead in the third quarter and went on to defeat Lincoln University High, 51-37, Friday night at the NU Coliseum.

Cathedral's third-quarter splurge was sparked by guards Jim McGinn and Chuck Wallerstedt as each collected three field goals in the period. McGinn, the Cardinal captain, took high point honors for his team with 14 points, edging out Wallerstedt who totaled 12.

Uni High's Dennis Beckman, a senior guard, took game honors with 15 points, despite having to play the entire second half with four personal fouls.

Cathedral gained an early 6-0 lead, connecting on three jump shots in the opening two minutes of the contest. Again McGinn and Wallerstedt were the culprits.

The Tutors first score came with 5:43 remaining in the first quarter when Jerry Schultz hit a free throw. Dennis Beckmann then tallied twice to bring the Tutors within one point, 6-5.

The Cardinals led by from one to three points until Alex Fischer put Uni ahead for the first time, 12-11, with a jump shot two minutes before intermission. Cathedral countered but Beckmann hit a set shot to put the Tutors ahead, 14-13, before the first quarter ended.

McGinn got the lead back for the Cardinals, 15-14, with a jump shot twenty seconds into the second quarter. They led by from one to four points until Uni's captain, 6-4½ Jim McMasters, hit a short jumper with 1:16 remaining in the half to give Uni a 22-21 advantage. A layup by Steve Speidel completed the first half scoring and gave Uni a 24-21 lead.

But the second half was a different story. Uni lost its lead for good when Wallerstedt connected with a set shot with 5:34 left in the third period, making it 27-26. Cathedral then boosted its lead to 33-26 as the Tutors were blanked for 3½ minutes.

The sluggish Tutor offense could muster up only 13 points in the second half while Cathedral tallied 30, gradually stretching its lead. The only Tutor to get more than two points the final half was Beckmann with seven. He left the game in the final minute with five personal fouls.

NCAA Clears Bill Jennings Of Charges

Oklahoma City (AP)—Bill Jennings, athletic director at Washburn University, Topeka, Kan., was cleared Thursday of charges that he touched off a 1959 NCAA investigation of the University of Oklahoma.

Jennings was football coach at Nebraska at the time the probe got underway.

The former Sooner grid star has stated repeatedly that he had nothing to do with the investigation. In a letter to the Daily Oklahoman, Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, supported Jennings.

Byers wrote in part:

"Bill Jennings did not submit any allegations to the NCAA concerning the athletic practices of the University of Oklahoma.

"He was not the source of the information which led to the NCAA's investigation of the University of Oklahoma's athletic operations."

. . . ASKS BAN ON CLOSED CIRCUIT TV

Kansas City (AP)—The Big Eight Conference Friday increased the football traveling squad limit from 40 to 45 players, asked the national rules committee to prohibit closed circuit television for football coaches and relaxed rules to permit freshmen to compete in outside meets.

The conference reaffirmed rules against football coaches going onto the field during games; adopted a new 7-year pairings plan for the holiday basketball tournament and set new signing dates for letter of intent programs in various sports.

The Big Eight's rules against outside competition have been the most restrictive of any major conference. The first revision permits athletes in all sports to compete in open meets up to three weeks prior to the championship meet in each sport. The second change permits freshmen in all sports to compete unattached in NCAA-approved meets.

The conference has permitted closed-circuit television in league games only if permission of the opposing coach was obtained. The coaches want the NCAA football rules committee to pass national legislation prohibiting its use. Failing this, they will review their policy before next season.

The new basketball tournament pairings plan provides that each team will face a different team every year in the first round for seven years. In recent years, the pairings for the annual tourney at Kansas City has been based on a formula using the conference finish the previous year.

The faculty men established Feb. 8, 1966, as the earliest date for signing high school athletes to football letters of intent. They set March 30 as the signing date for basketball, swimming, gymnastics and wrestling.

The conference also voted to ask the NCAA Extra Events Committee to make some arrangements for withholding of announcement of bowl game participants until the regular season ends.

Relaxed the rules to permit the Big Eight baseball champion to play four games between the end of the regular season and the NCAA College World Series.

Set the 1967 conference swimming meet for Missouri, 1968 for Kansas and 1969 for Oklahoma State.

Set the 1967 wrestling meet for Colorado; 1968 for Kansas.

Set the 1967 gymnastics meet for Nebraska; 1968 for Oklahoma.

RIVER ALMOST FLOODS PARLIAMENT

London (AP) — Startled British legislators scurried from the House of Commons Friday as the rain-swollen Thames River came close to flooding London's ancient Parliament Buildings.

Members were listening to routine debate on national savings when Tom Driberg, bulky Labor member, broke into the discussions.

"Water is within a few inches of pouring over the top of the terrace wall," he declared. "At this moment down below the River Thames has reached a lével unprecedented in living memory."

Honorable members gasped.

They crowded onto the terrace and looked down at the Thames lapping inches from their feet.

The terrace wall runs right down into the river bed to protect the extensive underground installations of Parliament. Atop the wall and enclosing the terrace is a low guard rail of small stone pillars topped by the railing of stone slabs. The terrace runs along the entire river side of Parliament and its floor normally is eight to 10 feet above the Thames at high tide.

With an hour to run, the tide inched closer and closer. Then, dramatically, it turned and the water dropped.

Other parts of the Thames were less fortunate.

The tide, backed by gale winds, surged up the river and flooded homes and factories in Essex and Kent, southeast of the city.

At Charing Cross, little more than a stone's throw from Parliament, the river level actually was higher than the famous Embankment Street running alongside it. The water was kept back by a stout wall.

American Motors Lays Off

Kenosha, Wis. (AP)—A year-end layoff and job cutdown dulled the glitter of the Christmas season Friday for 19,500 employes of the American Motors Corp. Most were dismayed and many were bitter.

The corporation, which makes Rambler automobiles, will halt production at its Kenosha and Milwaukee plants three days before Christmas and remain closed until Jan. 17.

When the plants reopen, 2,400 workers will be out of jobs—most of them in Kenosha, a city of 70,000 where American has 12,000 hourly employes. The Milwaukee Plant has 7,500.

A company statement said the suspension "is to realign field stocks to the current sales pace." Rambler sales in the first 11 months of 1965 totaled 296,000 compared with 355,636 in the similar 1964 period.

"What a nice Christmas vacation," said an unhappy worker at the gate of the Kenosha factory. And looking back toward the plant, he muttered, "Thanks, fellas."

County Participation In Roads Program Urged

Omaha (AP)—State Engineer John Hossack Friday urged counties to take part in the national highway beautification program.

Hossack said counties should adopt zoning ordinance controlling commercial development along access roads to the state highway system and pay more attention to the physical appearance of county roads.

The state engineer said he realizes that most counties lack sufficient highway funds but more attention given to the appearance of roads when designing new improvements would not necessarily cost more money.

Hossack made the comments in a speech at the meeting of the Nebraska County Officials Association.

He said Nebraska has been allocated $616,800 in federal beautification program funds to implement the feder- during the next fiscal year, but he noted state legislation will be needed before the Roads Department can remove billboards and junkyards from the sight of motorists on primary highways.

Hossack said the weather during the construction season now drawing to a close was poor and rains and flooding "greatly curtailed" construction much of the time.

Among projects originally scheduled for completion this year but delayed because of weather was the 13-mile stretch of Interstate Highway between Maxwell and North Platte, which now is set for completion late next summer.

County Participation In Roads Program Urged

Omaha (AP)—State Engineer John Hossack Friday urged counties to take part in the national highway beautification program.

Hossack said counties should adopt zoning ordinance controlling commercial development along access roads to the state highway system and pay more attention to the physical appearance of county roads.

The state engineer said he realizes that most counties lack sufficient highway funds but more attention given to the appearance of roads when designing new improvements would not necessarily cost more money.

Hossack made the comments in a speech at the meeting of the Nebraska County Officials Association.

He said Nebraska has been allocated $616,800 in federal beautification program funds to implement the federal during the next fiscal year, but he noted state legislation will be needed before the Roads Department can remove billboards and junkyards from the sight of motorists on primary highways.

Hossack said the weather during the construction season now drawing to a close was poor and rains and flooding "greatly curtailed" construction much of the time.

Among projects originally scheduled for completion this year but delayed because of weather was the 13-mile stretch of Interstate Highway between Maxwell and North Platte, which now is set for completion late next summer.

Stock Market Notches Up Modest Gain

New York (AP)—The stock market notched up a modest gain Friday as Wall Street saw the list going back to normal following the high excitement earlier in the week on news of the discount rate increase.

Trading was the lightest this week, 8.75 million shares compared with 9.5 million Thursday.

Opinion in the street was that the general advance of interest rates has been largely shrugged off.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department said manufacturers' sales are expected to continue growing this quarter, although at a lower rate. Business will continue its uptrend next year, but the rate of growth might slacken, according to the National Association of Purchasing Agents.

The market rose irregularly, but without hesitation, all day.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.17 to 952.72.

Selective strength in blue chips bolstered the averages. Du Pont gained 2¼, Westinghouse Electric 1, Goodyear 1⅛, Air Reduction 1⅛, Standard Oil New Jersey 1 and United Aircraft 2.

Such gains overbalanced losses such as General Motors 1¼, Johns-Manville 1, Union Carbide ½, General Electric ½ and Liggett & Myers ¾.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained .24 at 91.80

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .5 to 354.9 with industrials up 2.1, rails off .5 and utilities off .5.

Of 1,423 issues traded, 656 rose and 518 fell. New highs for the year totaled 112 and new lows 36.

Ten of the 15 most active stocks rose, three fell and two were unchanged.

Commercial Solvnets was the most active stock for the second straight day, this time losing 1½ at 47½ on 294,300 shares as profits were taken on the big jump it made earlier in the week.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 4.41 million shares compared with 5.08 million Thursday.

Corporate and U.S. treasury bonds were mixed.

Grain Futures Firm To Strong

Chicago (AP)—A moderate demana for grain futures easily absorbed the rather meager offerings Friday and prices mainained a firm to strong range.

All old crop wheat months finished with gains of well over a cent a bushel, corn up a cent or more and soybeans ahead fractions despite a flurry of late profit cashing.

Brokers said trade was never more than moderately active but that speculators seemed reluctant to liquidate long commitments or sell short ones in view of general expectations of a continued good commercial demand, particularly on export accounts.

Wheat was ⅜-2⅛ cents a bushel higher at the close, December $1.67¾; corn 1-1½ cents a bushel higher, December $1.22¼-¾; oats ⅛ lower on all contacts; December 75⅝ cents asked; rye ½-1⅛ higher, December $1.22⅝; soybeans ⅛-⅝ higher, January $2.64½-⅜.

Feeder Cattle Prices Higher

Omaha, Neb. (UPI) — The National Livestock Feeders Association said in its weekly report Friday that feeder cattle prices were higher this week. Most sales were reported strong to 50 cents and one dollar up with the exception that calves were steady to 50 cents lower at the Denver sale, at Clovis Amarillo and Florida auctions. The higher fed market was a bullish factor and evidently current futures prices also was a contributing factor.

River markets: Prices uniform among the three markets—steer calves 350-550 lbs., choice 26.00-29.50, high choice and prime to 32.00 Sioux City. Good and choice 24.00-26.00. Heifer calves 350-450 lbs., choice 22.00-25.00, high choice and prime to 26.00 at Sioux City; good and choice Sioux City - Omaha 21.00-23.00. # Stock Market Notches Up Modest Gain

New York (AP)—The stock market notched up a modest gain Friday as Wall Street saw the list going back to normal following the high excitement earlier in the week on news of the discount rate increase.

Trading was the lightest this week, 8.75 million shares compared with 9.5 million Thursday.

Opinion in the street was that the general advance of interest rates has been largely shrugged off.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department said manufacturers' sales are expected to continue growing this quarter, although at a lower rate. Business will continue its uptrend next year, but the rate of growth might slacken, according to the National Association of Purchasing Agents.

The market rose irregularly, but without hesitation, all day.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.17 to 952.72.

Selective strength in blue chips bolstered the averages. Du Pont gained 2¼, Westinghouse Electric 1, Goodyear 1⅞, Air Reuction 1⅛, Standard Oil New Jersey 1 and United Aircraft 2.

Such gains overbalanced losses such as General Motors 1⅛, Johns-Manville 1, Union Carbide ½, General Electric ½ and Liggett & Myers ¾.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained .24 at 91.80

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .5 to 354.9 with industrials up 2.1, rails off .5 and utilities off .5.

Of 1,423 issues traded, 656 rose and 518 fell. New highs for the year totaled 112 and new lows 36.

Ten of the 15 most active stocks rose, three fell and two were unchanged.

Commercial Solvnets was the most active stock for the second straight day, this time losing 1½ at 47½ on 294,300 shares as profits were taken on the big jump it made earlier in the week.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 4.41 million shares compared with 5.08 million Thursday.

Corporate and U.S. treasury bonds were mixed.

Grain Futures Firm To Strong

Chicago (AP)—A moderate demana for grain futures easily absorbed the rather meager offerings Friday and prices mainained a firm to strong range.

All old crop wheat months finished with gains of well over a cent a bushel, corn up a cent or more and soybeans ahead fractions despite a flurry of late profit cashing.

Brokers said trade was never more than moderately active but that speculators seemed reluctant to liquidate long commitments or sell short ones in view of general expectations of a continued good commercial demand, particularly on export accounts.

Wheat was ⅜-2⅛ cents a bushel higher at the close, December $1.67¾; corn 1-1½ cents a bushel higher, December $1 22½-¾; oats ⅛ lower on all contacts; December 75⅝ cents asked; rye ½-1⅛ higher, December $1.22⅝; soybeans ⅛-⅝ higher, January $2.64½-⅜.

Feeder Cattle Prices Higher

Omaha, Neb. (UPI) — The National Livestock Feeders Association said in its weekly report Friday that feeder cattle prices were higher this week. Most sales were reported strong to 50 cents and one dollar up with the exception that calves were steady to 50 cents lower at the Denver sale, at Clovis Amarillo and Florida auctions. The higher fed market was a bullish factor and evidently current futures prices also was a contributing factor.

River markets: Prices uniform among the three markets—steer calves 350-550 lbs., choice 26.00-29.50, high choice and prime to 32.00 Sioux City. Good and choice 24.00-26.00. Heifer calves 350-450 lbs., choice 22.00-25.00, high choice and prime to 26.00 at Sioux City; good and choice Sioux City - Omaha 21.00-23.00. Steers 550-850 lbs., choice 24.00-26.00; good and choice mostly 22.50-24.50; choice 550-800 lb. heifers Kansas City and Sioux City 21.00-23.25.

Near-Derelict's Crewmen Safe

. . . QUEEN MARY SHIELDS SHIP FROM TOWERING WAVES

London (AP)—The West German tug Atlantik took all crewmen off the near-derelict Greek freighter Constantis early Saturday, British coast guards reported.

The crewmen had stayed aboard their vessel since they first reported it sinking in heavy seas Thursday They had wanted to abandon ship Thursday night but were dissuaded by the mast of the Queen Mary who stood by their freighter all night.

But Friday night the crew refused to spend another night aboard the freighter.

No Details

There was a long radio silence and then, in response to a coast guard call, the Atlantik reported she had taken off all crew members early Saturday. She gave no details of the rescue.

The 7,400-ton freighter, which was still floating, was being towed by the Atlantik some 300 miles southwest of Ireland. Coast guards said they were making for the French coast.

Coast guards said they understood the captain was among the crew members which the Atlantik reported taking off the freighter.

The Queen Mary, which assisted the Constantis, was back on her route to New York, 36 hours behind schedule. Her good deed will cost the Cunard Line 30,000 pounds ($84,000).

Sea's Fellowship

A Cunard Line spokesman said: "It will have to be written off to the fellowship of the sea."

The Queen Mary, with 1,000 passengers, was a day out from England when she picked up the Constantis' distress call. She changed course and detoured 363 miles to the freighter's aid.

Twice Capt. Geoffrey Marr, master of the Queen Mary, turned his 81,000-ton liner around to shield the little freighter from the towering waves.

Pastor's 'Mockingbird' Complaint Confirmed; Objects To School Use

Dale Rathe, coordinator of junior high school curriculum for the Lincoln Public Schools, confirmed Friday that the Rev. Elmer H. Murdoch filed a formal complaint in his office against Pulitzer Prize winning book, "To Kill a Mockingbird."

A partial listing of Rev. Murdoch's objections to eighth grade classroom use of the novel by Harper Lee was received by the schools Thursday, Rathe reported.

Murdoch, pastor of the Central Church of Christian and Missionary Alliance, asked the school administration to remove the book as required reading.

"To Kill a Mockingbird" has been used for three years in experimental English classes at Irving and Everett Junior High Schools as a part of the curriculum developed by the University of Nebraska Curriculum Center.

The novel deals with a white lawyer's battle for a Negro's life in a small town in the deep South. The Negro is accused of raping a teenage white girl.

Rev. Murdoch cited 25 specific examples in his protest, saying, "We object to the vulgar, profane speech and to the vain use of the Lord's name." He also objected to the "lengthy and vivid description" of the alleged rape.

The minister said he or no one else "is trying to dodge reality. Prostitutes, brothels and immorality are part of life, but who would suggest a guided tour verbally for young people?" he asked.

He contended the book should not be required reading in either junior or senior high school classes.

Rathe, who predicted that assistant superintendent Dr. Rudy Fredstrom would call a meeting to study the complaint early next week, observed that a few parents of eighth grade students have talked to teachers about the book in the past three years but "apparently the teachers' defense and explanation of the novel have satisfied them."

Director of the University curriculum development center Dr. Paul Olson reported that nearly two years ago a question had been raised about "To Kill a Mockingbird" in Mitchell schools. But, he added, after discussions between parents and teachers "the book is still being used there."

BISHOP CASEY'S RETURN IS DELAYED BY WEATHER

Bishop James V. Casey's return to Lincoln from the Vatican Council has been delayed by weather until Saturday night.

Weather delayed his departure from New York City Friday. The bishop is now scheduled to arrive in Omaha at 5:10 p.m. Saturday, and he will then be driven to Lincoln.

The three other Nebraska Catholic prelates returned together Thursday night. They are Archbishop Gerald Bergan and Auxiliary Bishop Daniel Sheehan of Omaha and Bishop John Paschang of Grand Island.

Bishop Casey announced he will hold a press conference, but no special social or religious programs have been planned.

In a recent letter from Rome, Bishop Casey praised the Council's progress while noting there would be no "sudden upheavals or massive transitions."

Through early 1966 Bishop Casey will meet with priests and laymen in his diocese to discuss the Council's acts and how to implement them, he wrote.

DRIVE AT NWU CLIMBS TO 88%

Nebraska Wesleyan University's Great Teaching Program hit 88% of its goal at the final formal report meeting Friday.

E. N. "Jack" Thompson, general chairman, said $44,284 has been pledged or contributed since the eighth annual Great Teaching drive started Monday.

Thompson said this figure is slightly ahead of last year's pace when the $50,000 was reached. He said volunteer solicitors will continue to make calls on prospects and pledges and contributions are still coming in through the mail.

He said all indications are that the program will again

Udall Warns East Likely To Be Drier

Washington (UPI) — Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall said Friday the drought that parched the Northeast last summer is likely to be even worse next year.

Only if there is a dramatic upward turn in rainfall will a fifth, and worse, year of water shortages be averted, Udall told a news conference. There is no evidence that the rainfall needed to build up adequate water reserves will occur, he said.

The drought conditions have continued into the fall, with water shortages still afflicting many areas running from eastern Pennsylvania through New England.

A Canadian official said here that his country was not yet prepared to share its wealth of water with the United States. He suggested that waste and inefficiency were partly the cause of the U.S. shortage — which he said might not really be a shortage at all.

Udall said he understood Canada's position, and the statements of John Turner, an official of the Canadian natural resources agency, were not surprising.

Udall said it would be "eminently sound" for Canada to make a thorough inventory of its water resources before agreeing to study any proposals for diverting water to the United States.

Two Accused Of $1,260,000 Theft Of Gold And Platinum

Perth Amboy, N.J. (UPI)—Police charged two men Friday with taking part in a systematic, eight-year theft of $1,260,000 worth of gold and platinum from a refining plant here. The precious metals apparently were unloaded on the European black market.

Raymond Pross, 44, of Perth Amboy, an ailing former businessman, surrendered at police headquarters with his attorney after police seized Alex Birnbaum, 46, a salesman from nearby Metuchen, in connection with the mammoth theft.

Detective Capt. Edward J. Mullen said the two suspects were taken into custoday on information from a third person already under arrest in the case. He was Steven Darytichen, 50, a long-time trusted employe of the American Smelting and Refining Co., where the precious metals were stolen.

Over 8 Years

Although the smuggling of the metals out of the plant took place over the last eight years, the three were only booked for the theft of $787,500 worth taken during the last five years because of the statute of limitations.

Pross and Birnbaum were released in $10,000 bail each pending further action following arraignment before Magistrate Louis F. Sellyei.

Middlesex County Prosecutor Edward J. Dolan said none of the loot has been recovered, adding, "It probably has been smuggled to foreign countries."

One of Three

Authorities said Darytichen was only one of three company employes who had clearance to enter a section of the plant's precious metals department without being checked. He allegedly was caught after a company supervisor noticed two gold bars in a cabinet where they didn't belong.

The gold was left in the cabinet and put under watch. Darytichen then allegedly was seen taking the bars and leaving the plant. He was promptly arrested.

Police said Darytichen apparently turned the loot — gold sand and bars and platinum—over to Pross and Birnbaum for disposal.

Mullen said plant officials estimated that 375 ounces of the precious metals were stolen each month since 1958. Some 22,500 ounces were taken during the last five years.

The company produces 14% of the nation's refined copper, in addition to its precious metals refining.

South Africa To Get Tallest Skyscraper

Johannesburg, South Africa (AP) — A 51-story office block to be built in Johannesburg will be the tallest reinforced concrete building in the world, its backers say.

American skyscrapers higher than this projected 730-foot building are all of steel-frame design, architect David Hughes of New York told a news conference.

It will be part of a $70-million plan called Carlton Center, including a 37-story hotel. Nearly five mid-city blocks will be used, with the two buildings occupying 35% of the site. This will leave 3¼ acres of open space for plazas and gardens.

The main office building, all air-conditioned, will have an observation lounge at 700 feet. The hotel will resemble the letter "Y" and lower floors, housing ballrooms and restaurants, will be constructed without pillars.

Completion is scheduled in 1971. The American architecture firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill is working with a South African group. Harry Oppenheimer, South African multimillionaire, is a backer.

Near-Derelict's Crewmen Safe

. . . QUEEN MARY SHIELDS SHIP FROM TOWERING WAVES

London (AP)—The West German tug Atlantik took all crewmen off the near-derelict Greek freighter Constantis early Saturday, British coast guards reported.

The crewmen had stayed aboard their vessel since they first reported it sinking in heavy seas Thursday They had wanted to abandon ship Thursday night but were dissuaded by the mast of the Queen Mary who stood by their freighter all night.

But Friday night the crew refused to spend another night aboard the freighter.

No Details

There was a long radio silence and then, in response to a coast guard call, the Atlantik reported she had taken off all crew members early Saturday. She gave no details of the rescue.

The 7,400-ton freighter, which was still floating, was being towed by the Atlantik some 300 miles southwest of Ireland. Coast guards said they were making for the French coast.

Coast guards said they understood the captain was among the crew members which the Atlantik reported taking off the freighter.

The Queen Mary, which assisted the Constantis, was back on her route to New York, 36 hours behind schedule. Her good deed will cost the Cunard Line 30,000 pounds ($84,000).

Sea's Fellowship

A Cunard Line spokesman said: "It will have to be written off to the fellowship of the sea."

The Queen Mary, with 1,000 passengers, was a day out from England when she picked up the Constantis' distress call. She changed course and detoured 363 miles to the freighter's aid.

Twice Capt. Geoffrey Marr, master of the Queen Mary, turned his 81,000-ton liner around to shield the little freighter from the towering waves.

Pastor's 'Mockingbird' Complaint Confirmed; Objects To School Use

Dale Rathe, coordinator of junior high school curriculum for the Lincoln Public Schools, confirmed Friday that the Rev. Elmer H. Murdoch filed a formal complaint in his office against Pulitzer Prize winning book, "To Kill a Mockingbird."

A partial listing of Rev. Murdoch's objections to eighth grade classroom use of the novel by Harper Lee was received by the schools Thursday, Rathe reported.

Murdoch, pastor of the Central Church of Christian and Missionary Alliance, asked the school administration to remove the book as required reading.

"To Kill a Mockingbird" has been used for three years in experimental English classes at Irving and Everett Junior High Schools as a part of the curriculum developed by the University of Nebraska Curriculum Center.

The novel deals with a white lawyer's battle for a Negro's life in a small town in the deep South. The Negro is accused of raping a teenage white girl.

Rev. Murdoch cited 25 specific examples in his protest, saying, "We object to the vulgar, profane speech and to the vain use of the Lord's name." He also objected to the "lengthy and vivid description" of the alleged rape.

The minister said he or no one else "is trying to dodge reality. Prostitutes, brothels and immorality are part of life, but who would suggest a guided tour verbally for young people?" he asked.

He contended the book should not be required reading in either junior or senior high school classes.

Rathe, who predicted that assistant superintendent Dr. Rudy Fredstrom would call a meeting to study the complaint early next week, observed that a few parents of eighth grade students have talked to teachers about the book in the past three years but "apparently the teachers' defense and explanation of the novel have satisfied them."

Director of the University curriculum development center Dr. Paul Olson reported that nearly two years ago a question had been raised about "To Kill a Mockingbird" in Mitchell schools. But, he added, after discussions between parents and teachers "the book is still being used there."

BISHOP CASEY'S RETURN IS DELAYED BY WEATHER

The three other Nebraska Catholic prelates returned together Thursday night. They are Archbishop Gerald Bergan and Auxiliary Bishop Daniel Sheehan of Omaha and Bishop John Paschang of Grand Island.

Bishop Casey announced he will hold a press conference, but no special social or religious programs have been planned.

In a recent letter from Rome, Bishop Casey praised the Council's progress while noting there would be no "sudden upheavals or massive transitions."

Through early 1966 Bishop Casey will meet with priests and laymen in his diocese to discuss the Council's acts and how to implement them, he wrote.

Udall Warns East Likely To Be Drier

Washington (UPI) — Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall said Friday the drought that parched the Northeast last summer is likely to be even worse next year.

Only if there is a dramatic upward turn in rainfall will a fifth, and worse, year of water shortages be averted, Udall told a news conference. There is no evidence that the rainfall needed to build up adequate water reserves will occur, he said.

The drought conditions have continued into the fall, with water shortages still afflicting many areas running from eastern Pennsylvania through New England.

A Canadian official said here that his country was not yet prepared to share its wealth of water with the United States. He suggested that waste and inefficiency were partly the cause of the U.S. shortage — which he said might not really be a shortage at all.

Udall said he understood Canada's position, and the statements of John Turner, an official of the Canadian natural resources agency, were not surprising.

Udall said it would be "eminently sound" for Canada to make a thorough inventory of its water resources before agreeing to study any proposals for diverting water to the United States.

Two Accused Of $1,260,000 Theft Of Gold And Platinum

Perth Amboy, N.J. (UPI)—Police charged two men Friday with taking part in a systematic, eight-year theft of $1,260,000 worth of gold and platinum from a refining plant here. The precious metals apparently were unloaded on the European black market.

Raymond Pross, 44, of Perth Amboy, an ailing former businessman, surrendered at police headquarters with his attorney after police seized Alex Birnbaum, 46, a salesman from nearby Metuchen, in connection with the mammoth theft.

Detective Capt. Edward J. Mullen said the two suspects were taken into custoday on information from a third person already under arrest in the case. He was Steven Darytichen, 50, a long-time trusted employe of the American Smelting and Refining Co., where the precious metals were stolen.

Over 8 Years

Although the smuggling of the metals out of the plant took place over the last eight years, the three were only booked for the theft of $787,500 worth taken during the last five years because of the statute of limitations.

Pross and Birnbaum were released in $10,000 bail each pending further action following arraignment before Magistrate Louis F. Sellyei.

Middlesex County Prosecutor Edward J. Dolan said none of the loot has been recovered, adding, "It probably has been smuggled to foreign countries."

One of Three

Authorities said Darytichen was only one of three company employes who had clearance to enter a section of the plant's precious metals department without being checked. He allegedly was caught after a company supervisor noticed two gold bars in a cabinet where they didn't belong.

The gold was left in the cabinet and put under watch. Darytichen then allegedly was seen taking the bars and leaving the plant. He was promptly arrested.

Police said Darytichen apparently turned the loot — gold sand and bars and platinum—over to Pross and Birnbaum for disposal.

Mullen said plant officials estimated that 375 ounces of the precious metals were stolen each month since 1958. Some 22,500 ounces were taken during the last five years.

The company produces 14% of the nation's refined copper, in addition to its precious metals refining.

South Africa To Get Tallest Skyscraper

Johannesburg, South Africa (AP) — A 51-story office block to be built in Johannesburg will be the tallest reinforced concrete building in the world, its backers say.

American skyscrapers higher than this projected 730-foot building are all of steel-frame design, architect David Hughes of New York told a news conference.

It will be part of a $70-million plan called Carlton Center, including a 37-story hotel. Nearly five mid-city blocks will be used, with the two buildings occupying 35% of the site. This will leave 3¼ acres of open space for plazas and gardens.

The main office building, all air-conditioned, will have an observation lounge at 700 feet. The hotel will resemble the letter "Y" and lower floors, housing ballrooms and restaurants, will be constructed without pillars.

Completion is scheduled in 1971. The American architecture firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill is working with a South African group. Harry Oppenheimer, South African multimillionaire, is a backer.

Homestead Home Gets Accredited

The Homestead Rest Home, 4735 South 55th, has become the first Nebraska facility to receive accreditation as an intensive skilled nursing care home.

The accreditation came from the National Council for Accreditation of Nursing Homes.

Eugene Thompson, executive secretary of the Nebraska Nursing Home Association, praised the Homestead Home for its achievement. He said more than 40 other nursing homes in the state have accreditation applications pending.

Thompson said the accreditation will help improve nursing care home facilities in Nebraska.

Soviets' Seaborne Spying Vigil On Guam Marks Its First Birthday

Agana, Guam (AP) — The Soviet Union's permanent seaborne spying vigil on Guam has passed its first birthday and achieved the status of a landmark-seamark.

Day in, day out, a Soviet trawler bobs at anchor just outside the three-mile limit of this U.S. Pacific outpost, off Apra Harbor.

The trawler sees the Polaris missile submarines and the B52 bombers come and go. No one has the slightest doubt that the information is transmitted promptly to Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and the communist guerrillas in Viet Nam.

Ignore Spy

The submarine and bomber crews ignore the floating spy and get on with their tasks—patrolling the Pacific and bombing the Vietnamese communists.

Apra treats the whole thing as a tourist attraction. Important visitors go out to the spy ship by launch, and some trade the crew American beer for vodka, or American cigarettes for the Russian kind.

The spying vigil began on Nov. 28, 1964, when a Soviet trawler arrived just 24 hours before the Polaris submarine tender Proteus tied up off what is now called Polaris point.

A week later, the first Polaris-armed submarine in the Pacific, the USS Daniel Boone, slipped into Apra Harbor and berthed alongside the Proteus.

4 Subs

The Russian observers have since seen four other missile-carrying American submarines arrive and have kept tab on them when they return to Guam periodically. Two more are due to join Submarine Squadron 15, commanded by Capt. Robert C. Giffen Jr., of Annapolis, Md.

Polaris missiles can be fired from beneath the surface of the ocean and deal devastating destruction upon targets more than 2,500 miles away.

It is Giffen's job, and that of Capt. Robert H. Gulmon, of San Francisco, the chief of staff, to supervise the complex operation of keeping the missile-carrying submarines at sea.

"Ours isn't the glamor job on Guam," Gulmon said, referring to the Strategic Air Command jets operating from Andersen Air Force Base.

900 Men

Gulmon said that in the years Proteus has been here its 900 shipfitters, guided missilemen, electronics technicians and other specialists have shaken down into an efficient routine which keeps the five nuclear submarines operating at a high degree of preparedness.

As for the spy ship, "It's been out there so long now that we've just about become used to it," said Giffen.

Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm, head of the 3rd Air Division, said he was not particularly concerned about spying on the operations of his 30-odd B52s.

"I'm not so naive as to think that he doesn't try to get messages back to warn the Viet Cong," said Crumm. "But the Russians have no way of knowing our specific targets."

Adm. Bird

Rear Adm. Horace V. Bird, commander of U.S. naval forces in the Marianas, is only slightly more sensitive to the Soviet trawler's presence.

Bird said the fishing boat is relieved about once every 40 days. The trawler's topsides bristle with antennae which Bird wryly remarks can hardly be needed to catch fish.

At this time of year, the spies may report that something extra goes on the American subs before they leave Apra Harbor. Each has a Christmas tree, and Christmas gifts for the 124 men and 14 officers on each vessel.

And on Christmas Day, the crews will eat a traditional Christmas dinner — several hundred feet beneath the surface.

Actor Tom Neal Sentenced For Shooting Wife

Indio, Calif. (AP) — Former actor Tom Neal was sentenced Friday to one to 15 years for the fatal shooting of his wife.

Superior Court Judge Hilton H. McCabe pronounced sentence on the charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Neal, 51, was convicted three weeks ago in the death last April 1 of Mrs. Gail Neal, 29, found shot to death in their Palm Springs home.

Soviets' Seaborne Spying Vigil On Guam Marks Its First Birthday

Agana, Guam (AP) — The Soviet Union's permanent seaborne spying vigil on Guam has passed its first birthday and achieved the status of a landmark-seamark.

Day in, day out, a Soviet trawler bobs at anchor just outside the three-mile limit of this U.S. Pacific outpost, off Apra Harbor.

The trawler sees the Polaris missile submarines and the B52 bombers come and go. No one has the slightest doubt that the information is transmitted promptly to Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and the communist guerrillas in Viet Nam.

Ignore Spy

The submarine and bomber crews ignore the floating spy and get on with their tasks—patrolling the Pacific and bombing the Vietnamese communists.

Apra treats the whole thing as a tourist attraction. Important visitors go out to the spy ship by launch, and some trade the crew American beer for vodka, or American cigarettes for the Russian kind.

The spying vigil began on Nov. 28, 1964, when a Soviet trawler arrived just 24 hours before the Polaris submarine tender Proteus tied up off what is now called Polaris point.

A week later, the first Polaris-armed submarine in the Pacific, the USS Daniel Boone, slipped into Apra Harbor and berthed alongside the Proteus.

4 Subs

The Russian observers have since seen four other missile-carrying American submarines arrive and have kept tab on them when they return to Guam periodically. Two more are due to join Submarine Squadron 15, commanded by Capt. Robert C. Giffen Jr., of Annapolis, Md.

Polaris missiles can be fired from beneath the surface of the ocean and deal devastating destruction upon targets more than 2,500 miles away.

It is Giffen's job, and that of Capt. Robert H. Gulmon, of San Francisco, the chief of staff, to supervise the complex operation of keeping the missile-carrying submarines at sea.

"Ours isn't the glamor job on Guam," Gulmon said, referring to the Strategic Air Command jets operating from Andersen Air Force Base.

900 Men

Gulmon said that in the years Proteus has been here its 900 shipfitters, guided missilemen, electronics technicians and other specialists have shaken down into an efficient routine which keeps the five nuclear submarines operating at a high degree of preparedness.

As for the spy ship, "It's been out there so long now that we've just about become used to it," said Giffen.

Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm, head of the 3rd Air Division, said he was not particularly concerned about spying on the operations of his 30-odd B52s.

"I'm not so naive as to think that he doesn't try to get messages back to warn the Viet Cong," said Crumm. "But the Russians have no way of knowing our specific targets."

Adm. Bird

Rear Adm. Horace V. Bird, commander of U.S. naval forces in the Marianas, is only slightly more sensitive to the Soviet trawler's presence.

Bird said the fishing boat is relieved about once every 40 days. The trawler's topsides bristle with antennae which Bird wryly remarks can hardly be needed to catch fish.

At this time of year, the spies may report that something extra goes on the American subs before they leave Apra Harbor. Each has a Christmas tree, and Christmas gifts for the 124 men and 14 officers on each vessel.

And on Christmas Day, the crews will eat a traditional Christmas dinner — several hundred feet beneath the surface.

NASON ON EDUCATION:

Ex-Student Wants To Return To College After Failing All Subjects

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Dear Dr. Nason:

I would like to return to college although I am not at present in good standing with the college I last attended. I made the mistake of taking too many elective courses in which I was interested but for which I was not fully prepared. Some of the courses I selected were graduate courses. It was just too heavy a work load for me. Before the last semester in which I failed all subjects my grade point average was 2.4. How can I now continue my education?

M. H. C. Seattle, Wash.

Answer:

You walked out on a limb and sawed it off and now you will have to reclimb the tree.

I hope that your experience has taught you some respect for the judgment of college curriculum makers and counselors regarding the prerequisites set for advanced courses.

You must now convince the counselor for a public junior college or for the Extension Division of a four-year college or university that you have adopted a more realistic attitude toward college work. They then may give their approval for a limited program through which you can prove your sincerity.

Dear Dr. Nason:

I have read and enjoyed your columns on "How to Get In College — and Succeed," but when you make the statement that 75% of what you learn should be absorbed in the classroom," I strongly disagree.

I am a graduate student soon to receive my Ph.D in biochemistry. I carried a 2.6 plus average on a 3 point system while an undergraduate and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and doubt that I absorbed more than 10% while in the classroom. When taking notes, I simply transferred what the professor said to paper listening to very little of it then when back in the quiet of my room. I read it and learned it. You see I have a good memory in regard to written material but a very poor memory in regard to what I hear. Now, this of course makes me a special case, but I can't believe I'm the only person in the world like that.

C. R. P. Champaign, Ill.

Answer:

You are to be congratulated on your ability to learn rapidly and well through reading. However, I have known a considerable number of students who excel in this ability and who have also learned the additional skill of absorbing material through listening. It is not a matter of depending on one or the other. A good student makes use of both.
